New Theology

Q. While I was in England recently I read a serialized article entitled "Was God an Astronaut?" The newspaper that carried the series said that the articles would be published in book form. Can you tell me when? J. F., Long Beach.

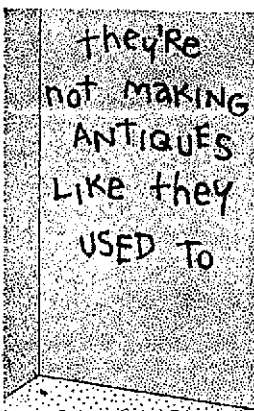

A. The manuscript — as yet untitled in book form — will be published by Black of London, probably next fall, according to a spokesman for The McMillan Co. in New York. Written by Lars Hedderson, a Swedish theologian, the work views God as an explorer in space, creating as He discovered.

Closed Courts

Q. ACTION LINE recently published a statement to the effect that the closing of the handball courts on weekends at California State College at Long Beach was necessary to prevent vandalism. Is it possible for you to help us nonstudent handball players convince the college administration that these fine courts are appreciated and treated with respect by those adult players who can use the facilities only on weekends? Please help us reopen these courts! P.J.M., Seal Beach.

A. "It's not the people who want to use the courts who wreck them," said Dr. Tom Dean, Dean of Applied Arts at the college. "It's youngsters who come in and paint foul words on the walls, break bottles in the courts and generally destroy anything they can." He said there simply are not funds available for policing the courts on weekends. "The campus police have 300 acres to cover. They can't stand around those courts all day, and that's what it would take — someone watching almost every minute." He added that more than $1,000 has been spent just replacing locks on the courts in the last three years. He also noted that the courts are open weekday evenings until 9. Dean said he will be glad to discuss the matter with you if you wish to call him at 433-0951 and make an appointment.

Family Planning

Q. After seven years of marriage, my husband and I still have no children, although the doctors say nothing apparently is wrong with either of us. Could ACTION LINE give us the names of some specialists on this subject? B. F., Long Beach.

A. The Long Beach Medical Association, 804 Pine Ave., 432-3971, can refer you to local physicians specializing in fertility problems. You also might like to consult doctors at the Family Planning Clinic, 2960 W. Eighth St., Los Angeles, a nonprofit clinic with doctors specializing in fertility as well as birth control. You can call the clinic at 386-1970 for an appointment.

Hazel

Q. Is Shirley Booth, the actress who played Hazel on television, still alive? If so, what is she doing now? D. E. V., Paramount.

A. Academy-award winner Shirley Booth is very much alive, and currently starring in the Chicago revival of William Marchant's play, "The Desk Set," according to Harry Mosley, her business manager. Miss Booth played the same role off-Broadway last year ending an eight-year absence from the stage. She spent part of the eight years as the star of the "Hazel" television series. Although Miss Booth had been performing in Broadway shows since 1925, she didn't achieve nationwide fame until she played Miss Duffy on radio's "Duffy's Tavern" from 1941 to 1943. She was married to Ed Gardner, the show's creator and leading character, from 1929 to 1942. Miss Booth achieved critical acclaim in 1950, 1951 and 1952 for her stage and screen portrayals of the dumpy, middle-aged housewife in "Come Back Little Sheba." She won a Tony award for her stage performance and an Oscar for her first film appearance. Miss Booth considers Cape Cod, Mass. her home.

Foreign Flag

Q. The American Field Service this year is sponsoring a student from Afghanistan who will be in Long Beach soon. When the students give their introductory speech, it is customary to have their country's flag on display. We're at a loss as to where to find a small flag for Afghanistan. J. R. S., Long Beach.

A. You can get an Afghanistan flag — four inches by six inches — at M. E. Taylor and Son, 1501 Oregon Ave., Long Beach, HE 5-5691. Afghanistan flags in larger sizes are available at Perry E. James Co., 6809 Hawthorne Blvd., Hollywood, 464-5159.

Another Quake Hits L.B.

Two Temblors
Jar Southland
Within 12 Hours

A moderately strong, "potentially damaging" earthquake swayed buildings and rattled windows throughout the Southland Friday afternoon, following a similar early-morning temblor by almost exactly 12 hours.

No damage was reported from the two quakes, centered along a fault in the Santa Barbara Channel near San Nicolas Island, about 90 miles west of Los Angeles.

Dr. James N. Brune, head of the Seismology Laboratory at Caltech said the quakes were strong enough to have caused considerable damage if they'd centered in populated areas.

The second quake, which shook the Southland at 1:27 p.m., measured 5.0 on the Richter scale. The earlier 1:23 a.m. temblor measured 5.25. A "major" quake registers 7.0.

The Friday temblors—felt from Orange County to Santa Barbara—were the third and fourth earthquakes felt in Southern California this month.

A moderately heavy quake was recorded Wednesday along a 75-mile section of Southern California, centered near Lompoc. That temblor registered 5.3 and caused no injuries or damage.

An Oct. 1 earthquake jarred Santa Rosa causing $10 million in property damage. It registered 5.4.

Dr. Brune said Friday's quakes centered on the site of a major 1927 temblor which registered 7.5 on the Richter scale. Little is known about the fault, he said, because of difficulties in studying underwater geologic formations.

He noted, however, that the quakes indicate the active seismic zone is so broad along the Southern California coast that it extends out to the continental shelf.

A Union Oil spokesman on the drilling platform in the Santa Barbara Channel where last spring's oil leak polluted miles of beaches said he felt nothing. But equipment was being checked, he added.

A Redondo Beach housewife described the second quake as a "trembling sensation" which shifted pictures on the walls.

The early-morning shock—which lasted about 30 seconds—was described in much the same way by Long Beach residents, although many said they didn't feel either quake.

Prisoner Killed in Escape Try

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI) — One inmate was electrocuted Friday night when three prisoners attempted to escape from Walpole State Prison.

Officials said another prisoner was captured and the third man made good his escape.

The dead man was identified as Richard Pennery, who was serving a 2½ to 5-year term for breaking out of Boston's Charles Street Jail.

Pennery and the other prisoners, Gareth Robinson, 37, and Joseph T. Netto, of Cambridge, climbed through a ventilator in their cell and made their way to the roof, officials said.

After jumping to the ground, officials said, the three men climbed the wall by the use of a cloth rope. Pennery came in contact with the electrified fence and was killed immediately.

Netto fell from the wall and was captured inside the wall, officials said, while Robinson escaped.

Robinson was serving a 7 to 15-year term for armed robbery while Netto was sentenced to 7 to 12 years for armed assault with intent to rob.

Court Dismisses

Bottomless Charges

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Municipal Court Judge George Zucker Friday dismissed charges of indecent exposure against three bottomless dancers because the prosecution failed to produce "expert testimony."

During the trial, Judge Zucker convened court in a West Hollywood night club called the Phone Booth and watched the three girls perform.

BILL MARTIN EXAMINES SEXTANT IN TUNA CLIPPER WHEELHOUSE
Harassed Skipper Ready to Return to South American Waters

CAPTURED 4 TIMES

Tuna Boat Skipper Demands Protection

SAN DIEGO — Bill Martin is an ex-Marine who skips the biggest of the 130 U.S.-owned tuna boats. He's also the most-captured. Gunboats of four nations have hauled him in, claiming violation of offshore water limits. Uncle Sam has paid $109,457 in fines on his behalf.

Martin, 48, is not discouraged. He's heading back to sea. But he says: "The United States has got to do something about this harassment. The situation is getting worse. Something must be done."

Martin lives in Puerto Rico but is recuperating here with relatives after being hit by a virus infection while fishing last month. He plans to rejoin his 192-foot clipper, Day Island, at Puerto Rico next week.

Since 1967 the vessel has been seized by Panama, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru. These nations claim territorial waters 200 miles from shores.

The Day Island with a 17-man crew was in waters "16 or 17 miles" off Ecuador early last Dec. 10 when a former U.S. destroyer, a gift to Ecuador, pulled alongside. Eight Ecuadorian sailors boarded Martin's ship, and an officer took him to the town of Manta while others stood guard on shipboard for five days.

THE FINE of $82,975 was advanced by the Starkist Co., for which Martin has fished on contract for eight years. At the end of the voyage, it was deducted from the payment for his haul.

Panamanian vessels surrounded the Day Island in 1967, its crew firing rifle shots into the air. Martin sailed again after paying $10,000.

Within a week, the ship was seized off Peru. The fine that time was $12,000. Colombia captured it once, charging $5,500.

Martin says he was docked the fines after delivering his fish to a cannery at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, but the U.S. State Department eventually repaid them all under the 1968 Fisherman's Protective Act.

The U. S., which recognizes 12-mile offshore territorial limits for fishing, talked in Buenos Aires in August with representatives of Chile, Ecuador and Peru. After 19 days of talks, spokesmen expressed "optimism."

Competition for the multimillion-dollar tuna catch has spread across the Atlantic and Pacific with Central and South American nations trying desperately to catch Japan, far in front, and the U. S. The fishing is best closer to the coasts, Martin says, particularly for striped Skipack and Yellowfin tuna.

After Ecuadorian warship seized six San Diego-based tuna vessels last June, hitting one with machine-gun fire, an outcry in Congress and elsewhere went up for protection of the American fishermen.

"It's impossible for the fishermen to do anything alone," Martin said Friday. "We don't have guns, and we aren't supposed to fight back anyway."

"The U. S. has just got to work out a solution somehow."

Poor Use of Funds Charged

By RALPH HINMAN
Education Editor

A thorough review of all facets of management of California's 19 state colleges will be held in the near future, Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, chairman of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, said Friday.

Thomas, D-San Pedro, said the study was ordered because evidence was uncovered of "flagrant mismanagement of college funds."

"Someone should be responsible," Thomas said in Los Angeles. The mismanagement evidence was uncovered during investigations ordered by the Legislature, he reported.

He said $400,000 was spent at California State College, Fullerton, for off-campus housing now costing $40,000 a year in taxes which could have been saved by building the housing units on the campus.

THE APPARENTLY poorly-planned Fullerton student housing situation was only one example cited by Thomas, who told audit committee members, state college officials and State College Chancellor Glenn Dunke that every aspect of official campus activity will be looked into.

"This will not be a witch-hunt," Thomas said, "but a continuing survey of academic practices."

Included in the "survey" will be checks of how the colleges are administered, methods of course grading used, the student class hour situation and faculty workloads, Thomas indicated.

"We are going into the management of state colleges to see whether professors are working or not," Thomas said.

"I'm willing to take him at his word," Dunke said in replying he favors the study, which could get under way as soon as next month.

THE AUDIT committee already is reviewing admissions policies and procedures at Sacramento State College, where administrative practices also have been investigated for possible mismanagement, Thomas said.

Thomas also cited a situation at San Francisco State College in which student body funds had to be

Burton Buys Jewel That Got Away

Combined News Services

Richard Burton, disappointed that a 69.42 carat flawless diamond slipped through wife Elizabeth Taylor's fingers at auction, bought it for her Friday from the successful bidder for a sum well over $1 million. It was one of the biggest jewel transactions in history.

Cartier Inc., the Fifth Avenue jeweler, purchased the pear-shaped stone at the Park-Bernet Galleries Thursday for a record auction price of $1,050,000, outbidding Miss Taylor's agent by $50,000. The actress had apparently told the agent, jeweler Al Yugler, that she could not go beyond $1 million.

Robert Kenmore, head of the corporation which owns Cartier's who bid personally on the diamond, said Burton got in touch with him Friday from Europe and said he wanted the stone for his wife. Kenmore, who indicated that Cartier's had bought the diamond as a display for its new Chicago salon, gave in to Burton on condition that Cartier can display the stone in Chicago from Nov. 1 to 8. "I cannot divulge how much Mr. Burton paid for the stone," said Kenmore, but he did not deny Cartier made a profit. "We're businessmen, and we're happy that she's happy."

Miss Taylor bought a 30-carat diamond ring at auction at Park-Bernet in 1966 for $305,000 and has worn it constantly at gala affairs such as a film premier in London Wednesday night where she outshined even Princess Margaret. Her new diamond is also set as a ring in platinum with two side diamonds in the shape of half moons. The Gem Trade Laboratories which tested the diamond for the auction galleries rated it as one of the finest in the world, internally flawless and of extraordinary clarity.

GOODBYE STAR

Robert Evans, Paramount Studio's vice president, and Ali McGraw, star of "Goodbye Columbus," were married Friday in a private court-house ceremony in Palm Springs. It was the first marriage for the 30-year-old actress and the third for Evans, 38. Evans, a former sportswear executive and actor, was previously married to Dorothy Manners in 1961 and to actress Camilla Sparv in 1964.

EULOGIZED

Old friends and many people who didn't even know him personally crowded St. Jean Baptiste Roman Catholic Church in Lowell, Mass., Friday for a High Requiem Mass for Jack Kerouac, eulogized as a man "practically alone in his later years." Those attending services at the church for the man often called "father of the beat generation" included poet Allen Ginsberg, novelist John Cleland and columnist Jimmy Breslin.

SHAKY CROWN

Homecoming Queen Joan Agin of Southern Illinois University reigned Friday on a shaky throne and wore a disputed crown. Miss Agin of Fairfield, Ill., who is white, had to put on her own crown Thursday night to reign over SIU's 1968 homecoming activities.

The retiring queen, Sheila Goldsmith, Brooklyn, N.Y., a Negro, called SIU a "racist institution," said she had been denied some of the honors afforded homecoming queens and refused to crown Miss Agin. Miss Agin won the throne in undergraduate balloting after Negro coeds had held it two straight years.

PRIZE SHOE

Nobel Prize-winning author Samuel Beckett has withdrawn into hiding to recover from the "distressing" shock over his award but probably will accept it in absentia, his literary agent said Friday in Paris.

Beckett is presumed to be somewhere in Tunisia, where he was vacationing with his wife when the announcement came that he had been awarded the 1969 Nobel Prize for literature. Jerome Lindon, agent and friend of the Irish playwright and novelist said he had talked to Mrs. Beckett by telephone from an undisclosed location.

"Both of them were distressed by the announcement that Samuel had won the prize," Lindon said. He said the French word Mrs. Beckett used to describe their reaction to the selection was "catastrophic." "He thought this year he would not be bothered by the Nobel business since French newspapers were saying he was not in the running, Lindon said.

BB DRAG

Brigitte Bardot fell from a horse while on a pleasure promenade last Sunday and was dragged 150 feet when her foot caught in the stirrup, it was learned Friday. She bruised her right hip. It happened while Miss Bardot 35, was visiting Jacques and Corinne Dasse at their country home near Paris. Dasse is a Paris hairdresser.

While the men went hunting, Miss Bardot, Mrs. Dasse and another friend went to a stable and rented horses for a ride. Mrs. Dasse's horse broke into a gallop, and Miss Bardot's mount followed.

"I was completely panic-stricken," Miss Bardot said. "I let go of the reins and hung onto the horse's mane, screaming to Corinne, Stop! Stop! I don't know how to gallop." That must have been hilarious.

Finch's Girl, Laird's Son in Viet Protest

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch said Friday that his 19-year-old daughter participated in the Oct. 15 Vietnam War Moratorium Day activities. He said his daughter, Maureen, "went into her community around her campus talking to housewives about the war." Miss Finch, a sophomore at Occidental College in Los Angeles, was unavailable for comment. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's son participated in Moratorium activities but Vice President Agnew says he prohibited his daughter from doing so.

CHAIR WAITS

Thomas White Hawk, born into poverty on an Indian reservation and educated at an exclusive private school will not die in the electric chair. South Dakota Gov. Frank Farrar Friday commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence pronounced on the young Indian.

The 40-year-old first-term governor, called White Hawk "a product of a tragic social environment." "Unlike the majority of American youth, he was denied the full benefits of parental direction because of their death during his formative years," said Farrar.

White Hawk was a freshman at the University of South Dakota when he and a companion, William Sands, broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Yeado on March 24, 1967. Yeado was shot to death with a .22-caliber rifle and White Hawk was found by authorities in a closet of the home.

JACKIE UNDONE

First Lady Pat Nixon is considering changing the decor in some of the formal White House rooms that Jacqueline Onassis restored when she lived there. Mrs. Nixon's new press secretary, Constance Cornell Stuart, said the changes would be slight and generally in the nature of replacing worn fabrics.

LIVING PROOF

Beatle Paul McCartney is alive and on vacation on a Scottish farm. He arrived in Glasgow Wednesday night with his wife and their two children and had his picture taken.

Rumors have been afloat in the U.S. that McCartney had been dead for some time, even though the Beatles and their business spokesmen have repeatedly denied the reports.

Can't Ignore 'Reality of Age'

Sen. Stephen M. Young, the Ohio Democrat with the touch for the peppery put-down, said Friday he will not be a candidate for re-election. The senator is 80 years old and that is the reason he gave for his decision not to seek a third six-year term.

Young refrained from endorsing a possible successor. Candidates on the Republican side could be Gov. James Rhodes, who cannot succeed himself by law, and Rep. Robert Taft Jr. Democratic speculation runs to John Gilligan, a liberal who lost in the 1968 Ohio Senate race to

Yanks in Biggest Battle of Month

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday—U.S. infantrymen fought their biggest battle in more than a month Friday, plagued by North Vietnamese snipers who popped up from hidden spider holes to fire at them from the rear. U.S. commanders threw 200 American ground troops into the battle, using a "pile on" technique seldom used since the Vietnam war settled into a pattern of flash fire fights with no sustained contact. 47 enemy were killed in the day-long action at a cost of 10 U.S. dead and 12 wounded. The fight flared unexpectedly after a helicopter gunship spotted and fired on three enemy soldiers 28 miles north of Saigon. The Americans apparently had run into a major enemy base camp.

Soviets Give Up Moon Try

STOCKHOLM—The chairman of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said Friday the Soviet Union has abandoned plans for manned space flights to the moon. Instead, Soviet scientists will concentrate on putting manned space stations into orbit around the earth. Prof. Mstislav Keldysh told Swedish newsmen. Keldysh hinted the Russians planned to assemble spaceships on the stations in orbit and launch them from there.

Spies Arrive in Adopted Land

WARSAW, Poland—Freed spies Morris and Lola Cohen arrived Friday in Poland, the country they apparently have chosen to live in, and were whisked away from their jetliner to an unknown destination. The American-born couple were the first off the British airplane which brought them from London, where they had served eight years in prison for supplying Allied naval secrets to the Soviet Union. Their destination was not known. They claim to have acquired Polish citizenship some years ago.

Party Drops Czech Idol

PRAGUE—Olympic champion Emil Zatopek, one of the country's most idolized sports figures, was expelled from the Czechoslovak Communist Party Friday in a growing purge of supporters of ousted liberal leader Alexander Dubcek. The wording of an announcement which accused Zatopek of violating army regulations by talking freely to foreigners, especially journalists, during the 1968 invasion, indicated the runner has remained an ardent supporter of the 1968 reformers and an outspoken critic of the Soviet-led invasion.

Lebanese Battle in Streets of Tripoli

TRIPOLI—Thousands of demonstrators supporting Arab guerrillas Friday battled Lebanese troops in the streets of Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city, and occupied several official buildings in a day of heavy bloodshed in the Mideast. At least five persons were killed in Tripoli and nine others wounded.

All of the dead were demonstrators in rampaging mobs which stormed three police posts in the old quarter of the city and seized an ancient fortress. Syria tightened the screws on the Lebanese government of President Charles Helou and demanded that he take a more militant posture against Israel. Reports from Tel Aviv hinted at the possibility of Israeli intercession if Helou fell and Arab armies took over. Al Fatah and Iraqi broadcasts said the crisis was a prelude to the landing of American troops in Lebanon as they did during the 1956 Arab-Israeli war when the Lebanese government was in danger of crumbling.

Double Drug Education Funds

PALO ALTO — Welfare Secretary Robert Finch says that President Nixon has asked him to double the appropriation for elementary and secondary school education programs on drug abuse. Finch told a political dinner Friday night that "the President was obviously moved" by entertainer Art Linkletter's testimony in Washington and San Francisco on the need for such programs. Nixon phoned Finch, who quoted the President as saying "I decided you ought to double your appropriation." Finch said "the idea is so that our children will know what the dangers are of LSD and other dangerous drugs." (Linkletter testimony, Page A-3.)

Cats Transmit Leukemia?

NEW YORK — A medical news magazine reports the household cat is suspected of transmitting leukemia to man but a Boston veterinarian calls the story "highly inaccurate." Medical World News says "virologists now strongly suspect the no. 1 U.S. pet as primary host for the oncogenic virus that, in turn, is the odds-on favorite to produce leukemia." But Dr. Gus Thornton called the report "sensational and highly inaccurate."

Indians Seal Off Beach

BELLINGHAM, Washington — The Lummi Indian tribe Friday declared 5,000 acres of beach and tidelands on Puget Sound off-limits to everybody except Indians. The action involved about 25 miles of beaches on areas called Sandy Point and the Lummi Peninsula. It was similar to a closure of ocean beaches on the Quinault Indian reservation two months ago.

Winds Lash Apollo Rocket

CAPE KENNEDY — Winds gusting up to 40 miles per hour lashed the Apollo 12 rocket during a critical countdown test Friday but did not interrupt the launch pad exercise. Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad, Richard Gordon and Alan Bean are scheduled for launch Nov. 14 on the nation's second moon landing mission. The trial countdown is the last big test before the start of final launch preparations.

Missile Test Hearings

WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will take up the issue of multiple warhead missile tests with Secretary of State William Rogers next Wednesday, chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., announced Friday.

UCLA Red Backed by L.A. Court

A Los Angeles Superior Court issued a summary judgment Friday ordering the regents of the University of California to make no further attempts to dismiss Angela Davis as an assistant professor at UCLA.

The action by Judge Jerry Pacht amplified his ruling last Monday that the firing of Miss Davis by the regents on grounds she was an admitted Communist was unconstitutional.

The judgment came on Miss Davis' petition to join the previous "taxpayers" suit brought by UCLA faculty members against her dismissal.

It permanently enjoined the regents from terminating her appointment at UCLA or "causing or bringing about" her dismissal. The regents were also prohibited from "abridging, restraining or obstructing" Miss Davis in her teaching duties.

2 Bridge Suicides Identified

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two men who jumped to their deaths from the Golden Gate Bridge while a suicide documentary was being filmed were identified Friday.

They were George L. Hagemann, 68, of San Francisco, and Karl E. Bybee, 48, of Sacramento.

Officers said Bybee jumped just north of the south tower while a CBS crew was filming a documentary on suicide at another place on the span. A short time later, Hagemann jumped from mid-span. The television crew was still at work and filmed the recovery of his body.

Navy Man Shot on L.B. Street

A 24-year-old Navy steward, shot and critically wounded on a downtown Long Beach street, remained under intensive care at St. Mary's hospital late Friday.

Antonio V. Locansas, of the USS Valley Forge, a helicopter carrier, was shot in front of 542 W. First St. by a gunman wielding a .22-caliber firearm at about 2 a.m.

The bullet entered the right side of his chest and shattered his spine.

Locansas was able to write a note to police, naming a suspect in the shooting.

Man Killed While Aiming at Officers; Teen Girl Held

A 16-year-old Redondo Beach girl was being held in County Juvenile Hall Friday for suspicion of murder and grant theft auto after her male companion was slain while pointing a handgun at Gardena police.

Mark Clinton Benson, 21, of Phoenix, also known as Melvin Schelper, was killed Thursday by one of of higher education in California.

Speaking before approximately 3,000 University of California students in Sproul Hall Plaza, they called Gov. Ronald Reagan and the university board of regents "unscrupulous demagogues" for the manner in which they run the state universities.

"I think the students should have a monopoly on academic freedom . . . freedom to propose revolutionary solutions," said Miss Davis, assistant professor of philosophy at UCLA who was one of Marcuse's students at the University of California at San Diego.

MARCUSE joined Miss Davis Friday on the second day of her four-day speaking tour of colleges in the San Francisco Bay Area. Regents barred her from teaching at UCLA because she is a member of the Communist Party, but a Superior Court judge in Los Angeles later ruled the action unconstitutional.

"This is not a victory celebration," Marcuse told the Cal students. "On the contrary, the fight is just beginning against all those who want the university to be a training school for society, the security and prosperity of which is based on the enslavement of other people within and without the frontiers of the United States."

MARCUSE URGED that campus demonstrations continue in increasing numbers in order to establish "freedom" of the students.

"Demand that the regents resign and if they don't, see to it that they return authority over appointments to the faculty and students," said Marcuse.

Miss Davis condemned academic freedom as "an empty concept under which professors work undisturbed by the real world."

"It is empty unless we connect it with political and social freedom," said the 25-year-old Negro. "The regents are afraid of students and that's why they've been using oppressive measures."

"I am very happy about the court decision," she added. "It revealed that Reagan and the regents are unscrupulous demagogues."

Pregnancy Suit Facing Hospital

HANFORD — Kings County General Hospital is being sued for $250,000 by a woman who claims she became pregnant after a sterilization operation at the hospital.

Two separate actions were filed, attorneys said Friday, one on behalf of Angie Burnias of Corcoran and the other for her four boys, 1 to 9 years old.

The suits said that because doctors felt Mrs. Burnias would have difficulty surviving another pregnancy and because family finances were limited, "a bilateral tubal ligation" was performed last July when Mrs. Burnias had her last child.

three shots from the service revolver of Officer Robert Watts.

Police said Benson pointed a cocked .30-caliber revolver at Watts and Officer Gordon Johnson after the policemen stopped the auto in which Benson and the girl were riding at the parking lot of the Gardena Club, 15446 S. Western Ave.

'Cycle Boss Faces Gun Charge

The 36-year-old president of the Hessians motorcycle club will be arraigned in Municipal Court Tuesday following his arrest in a Long Beach beer bar where police found a pistol reportedly stolen from the home of a sheriff's deputy.

Waymon A. (Crazy Wing) Grisenti, of 19402 Jerrilyn Lane, Huntington Beach, was booked for investigation of grand theft and burglary after he was arrested at 735 E. Pacific Coast Highway early Friday.

Grisenti was released on a writ of habeas corpus after posting $3,750 bond later in the day.

Detective Sgt. Jack Greenleaf said the .25-caliber pistol was stolen June 23 during the burglary of the home of a sheriff's deputy in Westminster.

Greenleaf said officers saw Grisenti and a group of men and women enter the rear door of the bar after closing hours. The officers investigated and said they saw Grisenti trying to hide the loaded weapon behind a juke box. The other persons seen with Grisenti were not arrested, police said.

The car had been stolen in Torrance last Saturday, police reported.

Benson was a California Youth Authority parolee and was wanted for parole violation, officers reported.

The girl, who was driving the car, was booked for suspicion of murder under a technicality because of Benson's death.

wastes into Slip 5 of the Harbor in 1923, will end production by Dec. 1, laying off or relocating its 250-man labor force.

The firm's willingness to agree to the preliminary injunction would seem to mean that by Nov. 5 production will be reduced to a point where it need not worry about contempt of court citations for violations of the injunction, it was reported.

The request for the preliminary injunction was filed Oct. 17 by County Counsel John D. Maharg at the behest of the Los Angeles Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The firm was accused of violating a board cease-and-desist order that went into effect Sept. 1.

The petition for the order contended that inspectors on 17 occasions found vegetable oils, fats and scum floating on the water.

24 Valley Students Freed of Charges

A Los Angeles Superior Court judge Friday ordered dismissal of one charge of kidnapping and one of false imprisonment against 24 ex-students on trial in connection with the takeover of two campus buildings at San Fernando State College last November.

Judge Mark Brandler, hearing the case without a jury, ordered the charges dropped after Clarice Bryant, secretary to a college administrator, testified she did not consider herself kidnapped and had no fear when she was ordered from her office into a conference room.

Mrs. Bryant said she went willingly and was calm during the 90 minutes she was held in the conference room.

The 24 defendants, all but one of whom are members of the Black Student Union, still are charged with one count of conspiracy, 32 counts of kidnapping and 36 counts of false imprisonment.

Previous testimony has indicated the Nov. 4 incidents stemmed from demands that a freshman football coach be fired on grounds of racism.

Drug Creator Wishes to Undo Tragic Work

SAN FRANCISCO — The creator of STP, a type of dangerous drug, told a House committee Friday that its tragic use makes him wish he could undo it all.

And television personality Art Linkletter suggested that kids who have tried and abandoned the drug scene could be the starting point of undoing the growing youth drug culture.

"Teen-agers will listen especially to the kids who have tried dangerous drugs and turned off. They are the best authorities," Linkletter said.

Linkletter, who blames his daughter's death three weeks ago on LSD, called for compulsory drug education starting in the fourth or fifth grade.

Dr. Albert Shulgin, a chemist who developed the hallucinative drug STP in 1967 while employed by Dow Chemical Co., told the House Select Committee on Crime that he had great medical hope for STP, known as DOM to chemists.

"If I could redo the entire structure that led to DOM's discovery and now knowing how it has gone unfortunately not into medical virtue but into medical misadventure, I would be very happy never to do it. I would undo it all," he said.

Shulgin, a consultant to the National Institute of Medical Health, now works as an independent chemist out of a laboratory at his home near Lafayette.

He said that details on his experimental work have appeared from time to time in scientific publication where it is readily available. He said his research has dealt with the mechanism of mental illness.

Some of the drugs he has worked with have been known as long as 40 years and are commercially available. Shulgin said.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ DRUG EXECUTIVE URGES CONTROLS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The vice president of a large drug company suggested Friday that his industry should back legislation requiring more strict licensing by the government.

William E. McIntosh Jr., executive vice president of the Eli Lilly International Corp., told the House Select Committee on Crime that legitimate manufacturers were concerned with the problems of drug abuse which he said had become "A serious health problem."

"Perhaps this committee might consider a licensing statute which would provide adequate safeguards with respect to the issuance and revocation of manufacturing licenses, require pre-inspection of facilities prior to engaging in the business of drug manufacturing or repackaging," McIntosh said.

"Such a statute might also include security standards for warehousemen and carriers of narcotics, depressants, and stimulants. . . . We recommend further that those on the committee consider annual mandatory inspections of all licensees engaged in the manufacturing, packaging, conveying, and warehousing of dangerous, controlled substances," he said.

U.S., Russia Agree to Negotiate Arms Limitation

By TAD SZULC
New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The United States and the Soviet Union have arranged to announce today agreement to open negotiations on the limitation of strategic weapons.

The affirmative but long-awaited Soviet reply to the proposal for the talks made by President Nixon last June, was delivered to Secretary of State William P. Rogers by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin at a secret, shrouded meeting Thursday.

Although official silence surrounded the American-Soviet agreement, the White House press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, scheduled an unusual weekend press briefing for this morning. Earlier, refusing to comment on the reports that a Soviet answer had been received, Ziegler said, "I don't have any information to give you today on that subject." He emphasized the word, "today."

Soviet diplomatic sources indicated that an agreed announcement would be simultaneously made in Moscow.

Authoritative sources, reporting that Dobrynin had brought the Soviet reply to Rogers Thursday, said he suggested the second half of November as a propitious time to open the strategic arms' limitation talks, known in diplomatic parlance as SALT.

He was said to have listed Vienna, Geneva and Helsinki as acceptable sites for the negotiations. When President Nixon announced last June 19 that the United States had proposed the SALT negotiations, he remarked that as far as the place of the meeting is concerned, it could be Vienna, it could be Geneva. We are open on that question." The belief here was that today's expected announcement would specify both the site and the date of the talks.

What remained unknown, however, were the Soviet ideas on the agenda and the format and the level of the talks.

Reports circulating here Friday evening suggested that the Soviet Union may have proposed that the arms' limitation talks be inaugurated at a "summit" meeting between Nixon and Soviet Premier Alexei A. Kosygin. But these reports could not be confirmed immediately.

EXCLUSIVE
N.Y. Times Service

Strategic arms range from offensive weapons such as the intercontinental ballistic missiles, the new multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles (MIRV), polaris submarines and nuclear-equipped bombers to defensive equipment of the anti-ballistic missiles systems type.

It may remain for the negotiators, however, to define whether offensive and defensive weapons would be discussed simultaneously or on an agreed order of priorities. Likewise, it was unknown whether either or both sides favored taking up the question of existing stockpiles or of the development of new weapons or both.

The reported agreement to talk about slowing down the arms race represented the resumption of a diplomatic process interrupted by the invasion of Czechoslovakia by the Soviet Union and four other Warsaw Pact allies on Aug. 21, 1968.

Kosygin had sent a message to former President Lyndon B. Johnson on the eve of the invasion proposing a "summit" meeting to be centered on disarmament questions.

It was only last June that the Nixon Administration focused its attention on SALT and the National Security Council completed the first review of the U.S.'s negotiating position. On June 11, Rogers informed Dobrynin that the U.S. would be ready to open the negotiations between July 31 and Aug. 15.

However, it took Moscow more than four months to produce a reply. The long delay was attributed both to internal discussions within the Soviet government and to the Soviet-Chinese tensions.

On Sept. 22 — after Premier Kosygin had conferred with Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai in Peking and groundwork was laid for their present border negotiations — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko advised Rogers in New York that the reply on SALT would be given "soon" and he hinted it would be affirmative.

The expected announcement that an agreement was reached on starting the talks loomed, however, as only the first step in what is certain to be a lengthy and complex process.

The Nixon Administration is committed to consult with its allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on any agreements likely to emerge from the SALT sessions — Nixon said last June that such consultations would be undertaken — and this, too, will be a time-consuming process.

Administration officials said it would be premature to speculate whether the SALT negotiations, if successful, would lead to a formal U.S.-Soviet treaty — as in the case of the nuclear test ban treaty — or to less rigid arrangements.

One of the questions that may be raised at the outset of the talks is whether current testing of such weapons as America's MIRV and its Soviet counterpart should be halted before or during the negotiations.

This, in turn, officials said, may be affected by considerations in Washington and Moscow as to whether these new multiple-warhead missiles have been sufficiently tested to assure what the respective governments would consider as a strategic safety margin.

A joint U.S.-Soviet moratorium on MIRV testing has already been proposed by 41 senators in a resolution originally submitted four months ago by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass.

By coincidence, the Nixon Administration's study today of the Soviet reply on the SALT meetings came as Brooke again urged the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to take up his resolution.

"Should MIRV technology proceed without even an effort to ward off this new menace, the Senate as well as the president will bear a terrible burden of failure," he said in a letter to Sen. J. William Fulbright, of Arkansas, the committee's chairman.

Later in the day, the committee announced that Rogers would testify before it on MIRV and other matters next Wednesday. The invitation was issued and accepted before word had circulated here of the reported agreement on the SALT talks. The committee sources said that a decision to proceed with the talks would make Rogers' appearance even more useful.

COMMERCIALS OK

Cable TV Told to Create Shows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission Friday ordered about 200 of the nation's largest Community Antenna Television Systems (CATV) to begin originating some of their own programs by Jan. 1, 1971.

To help pay for them, the commission said it would allow commercials during "natural breaks" in the programs originated by cable television operators.

THE COMMISSION acknowledged this would provide competition for radio and television, but said there "was no basis for speculation that there would be an imminent loss or deterioration of this service."

If there was, the commission emphasized it was "prepared to take any action necessary to preserve free service to the public."

On the positive side, the FCC said it hoped its new rule would result in the viewing public being offered a wider variety of programs.

THE RULE would allow cable TV operators to originate programs live, such as sporting events or discussion shows, or to run tapes or feature-length films obtained from other sources.

The commission said that since CATV advertising rates would be more in line with radio rates than those of TV, it expected any "adverse" effect its order might have would be felt most keenly by radio.

The FCC said it would examine any case where radio revenues might be hurt and take "any action warranted by the circumstances."

By a 6-1 vote, the commission approved new regulations requiring original programs by CATV operators with more than 3,500 subscribers. Commissioner Robert E. Lee voted against the new rules.

THE REGULATIONS are part of a series of new Community Antenna Television rules being issued by the FCC since the Supreme Court last year upheld its right to regulate the multimillion-dollar industry. Other new rules will be issued after additional study, the FCC said.

Under the rules announced Friday, the FCC said CATV-originated programs would be subject to sponsorship identification and equal time and fairness rules now applying to other broadcasters.

CATV got its start in the early 1960s when operators devised electronic systems to pick distant television signals out of the air, amplify them and distribute them by cable to customers for a fee. CATV systems now serve about 2,000 communities, including large cities, although they first started in rural areas where TV pictures are hard to get.

U.S. Has Reached Limits at Paris Talks—Reagan

DENVER (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan said Friday he thought the United States had just about reached the limits to what it can do at the Paris peace talks.

"A year is enough time," he said, to give the North Vietnamese to react to U.S. peace overtures. That year, Reagan said, started when former President Johnson established an "open door" policy last November for peace talks. "How far do you go,"

Reagan asked, "without any compensating gesture in return?"

Reagan appeared at the news conference along with U.S. Sen Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Rep John Rhodes, R-ARIZ. All three were to appear at a Republican fund-raising dinner Friday night.

"The only overture that the President has not made," Reagan said, "is to offer the liberty of the people of South Vietnam. This we can't do."

The California governor also said he thought President Nixon had "been right in the first nine months" on Vietnam and said it was time the "people of these United States should support the President."

THERE WERE many well-intentioned people in the Vietnam Moratorium protest, Reagan said, but "they did lend comfort and aid to the enemy."

He said he thought there was no doubt that "some of our boys are going to die because of the Moratorium."

Reagan also predicted there would be more unrest among young people in California in the near future over a rent strike.

He said unrest among students has calmed down but that he was not optimistic about the future.

"I believe the true revolutionaries have something else up their sleeves," he said.

In his dinner speech, he said last week's Vietnam Moratorium was aptly named because "there was a moratorium on free discussion."

The National Vietnam Day Committee planned moratorium activities so "There was no legitimate debate on possible alternatives" to ending the war, Reagan told the group.

REAGAN likened persons who demand immediate removal of American troops from Vietnam to "those who would kibitz in a game in which they haven't even seen the cards with which the game is played."

"Those who parade, those who invoke the names of our honored dead in their noisy protests . . . cannot escape the ugly truth — they would lend comfort and aid to the enemy," he said.

Reagan said those who charge that President Nixon isn't doing all he can to bring about peace in Vietnam should "realize that no one could stand to profit more in his political fortunes if peace would come than the President."

"Can they possibly believe that any American President would prefer war to peace?" he asked.

Mandatory U.S. Health Plan Predicted in 70s

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A public health authority predicted Friday that a national compulsory health-insurance plan will be enacted into law during the 1970s.

Dr. John R. Philp, president of the California Conference of Public Health Officers, said that "the public will demand it."

If compulsory health insurance doesn't make it in the 70s, it is a certainty for the 1980s, he said.

DR. PHILP, who is Orange County health officer, was the luncheon speaker at the 42nd annual meeting of the Southern California Public Health Association in Long Beach Elks Club.

He also predicted that more prepayment medical-group programs will appear on the scene in the 70s, that Medicare and Medi-Cal funds will be held at their present level and that health programs will be reorganized to offer comprehensive care.

Dr. Philp also ticked off trends that began in the 1960s and which, he says, will continue into the next decade.

A revolution in medical technology will persist, he said.

"We are in the middle of a technological explosion in the field of health," he said. "Knowledge has doubled in the last eight years and will double again in the next five years."

BUT SO FAR, he said, there is no system to make all this knowledge available, and the "service gap is widening."

A public demand for more extensive health services will also continue, he said. As it is now, most doctors go where the dollar is, he contended. "Then he warned his audience:

"The experts had better listen to the people and give the people what they want."

Health care will become more expensive in the next decade, he went on. Massive involvement of the federal government in health care will persist. And a shortage of medical personnel will be said to exist as it is said to exist now.

"I wonder if the shortage is real," Dr. Philp said.

Maybe, he said, personnel is not being utilized in a sensible manner.

Dr. Philp concluded by saying that the health of the nation will be improved by preventative medicine—"not by continued care of the sick."

Earlier, by unanimous voice vote, association members in attendance passed two resolutions—one calling for continued support of water fluoridation, the other insisting upon an "open trial" of automobile manufacturers in regard to anti-smog devices.

The resolution on air pollution noted that inhabitants of smog-infested areas were "shocked" when the Department of Justice announced it wanted to settle its suit "based on secret testimony before a federal grand jury that the automobile manufacturers violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by conspiring to restrain and delay the development and installation of anti-smog devices."

The resolution says that "the public interest would best be served by having an open trial rather than a consent judgment."

The resolution also commends the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors for petitioning the federal court, requesting to intervene in the suit and asking $100 million damages for injuries to the public health and for the cost of the Air Pollution Control District.

Besides a "full and open trial," the resolution also urges the Senate and House of Representatives to conduct hearings to determine if the public is being fully protected.

As for fluoridation, the association recommended "that every California community adjust the fluoride concentration of its water supplies to the optimum concentration as recommended by the California State Board of Health."

'ANOTHER DAMN CRISIS' Viet Base Buried in Toilet Tissue

By JAMES P. STERBA
N.Y. Times Service

PHUBAI, South Vietnam, Saturday — "Another damn crisis," said Lt. Paul Jensen, looking at a truckload of toilet paper.

The 28-year-old supply officer from Phoenix had ordered eight boxes but received eight truckloads.

The temperature was 80 degrees at this tropical headquarters base, but "installation coordinator directive No. 210-5-4" was making the rounds. The directive, of dubious origin but very official looking, detailed the Phubai "snow removal plan."

Another bad movie was showing at the small outdoor theater here tonight. It was part of what the soldiers call "the Phubai film festival, Cannes in reverse."

Phubai is one of those bases in South Vietnam where the war is largely a bore, even though base artillery guns boom out for a few hours a night, shaking buildings and disturbing sleep.

The nearly 10,000 support troops stationed here have little to look forward to these days, but 12-hour work shifts, monsoon mud, and the nightly threat of rockets launched by enemy soldiers they never see.

Phubai is a place nobody likes to come to but everybody likes to leave. It is about 70 miles north of Da Nang, the nearest "civilization." The morale of the troops here is dependent largely on their ingenuity and on the availability of such condiments of war as obscene movies, alcohol and, occasionally, marijuana.

For two hours today, the men of the 24th artillery supply battalion were almost in hysterics unloading and trying to give away eight truckloads of toilet paper totaling more than 10,000 rolls.

"Just think — when you get back to the world and go for a job interview you can say you unloaded eight trucks of toilet paper in one day in the middle of a war," Sgt. Joseph Gangi, 22 years old, from Hartford, Conn., told his men.

After one box split open and some rolls spilled into the mud, there was a mock battle. Toilet paper missile filled the air, bouncing off the unloading crewmen.

"I'm going to write my wife tonight," said Gangi. "Dear honey, I had yet another tough day in the war zone. I unloaded toilet paper. War is hell."

The Phubai snow-removal plan looked like thousands of other military memos the Army churns out. It said, in part:

"B. Each unit will organize a blizzard aftermath reaction force (BARF) to respond at the direction of the OIC, SROC (officer in charge, snow removal control center) to situations of severe snowfall. In event of conflicting snow-removal requirements the BARF will respond in order of priority as determined by the base development planning board or will take credit or removal, naturally induced by sunlight, which ever occurs first. Each BARF will include a corpsman or medic equipped to treat cases of combat chilblains should any occur."

"C. Units desiring snow-removal assistance on an emergency nature will alert the SROC telephonically and announce 'this is a snow job.' Telephonic alerts will be followed up as soon as practicable with a snowflake report (flake-rep) containing necessary data such as snow depth, drift potential, residual icing, and a complete seven-paragraph justification."

The directive is signed, Kris Chringle.

Hijacked Aircraft Recovered

BAGDAD, Ariz. (AP) — The Yavapai County Sheriff's Office reported Friday afternoon it recovered a Cessna 182 single-engine plane which had reportedly been hijacked in California.

The name of the hijacker was not immediately released.

A Sheriff Department spokesman said the man was arrested shortly after he landed the plane at the Bagdad Airport. Bagdad is a small copper mining community in north central Arizona.

The spokesman said preliminary information indicated the plane was charted at El Cajon, Calif., flown to Needles, Calif., where the pilot was forced to leave the plane. The hijacker then flew the aircraft to Bagdad.

put into receivership. This, he said, was a classic example of mismanagement of state college auxiliary funds.

Some of the San Francisco State student funds reportedly had gone to purchase guns for militants, said Thomas.

Daniel Ridder, chairman of the State College Board of Trustees, Dumke and Harry Brakebill, executive vice chancellor, noted that the instances cited by Thomas were not recent and had been — or were being — corrected.

Dumke said that in recent years he has unsuccessfully sought legislative funding for a study comparable to that announced by Thomas.

Germany Currency Revalued

Rate of Mark
Up 85 Per Cent;
Goods Cost More

BONN (UPI) — The West German mark was increased in value by 8.5 per cent Friday as the first action of Social Democratic Chancellor Willy Brandt's new government.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Economics said the cabinet agreed at its first working session to set the official rate of the mark at 3.66 per dollar.

The previous official rate was four marks per dollar. Revaluation means that the mark, formerly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Revaluation of the German mark is expected to boost prices of German cars on the U.S. market. A spokesman for Volkswagen of America Inc. said the 8.5 per cent increase in the mark "necessitates a review of our pricing policy and may mean an increase in suggested retail prices."

worth 25 cents, is now valued at 27.32 cents and consequently German products will cost that much more.

THE GOVERNMENT next must decide what measures it would take to protect German farmers against food imported from other European Common Market countries. Unless special arrangements are made, imported food stuffs automatically will become cheaper.

Proposed protective measures must be approved by the Common Market's commission.

France was granted special protection for its farm products after the franc was devalued Aug. 8.

In Paris, a spokesman for the French finance ministry called reports of another devaluation of the franc in the wake of revaluation of the mark "completely absurd."

He said the difference between the mark and the franc was now nearly 20 per cent, making French goods that much more competitive.

THE FORMER Christian Democratic government of ex-Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger opposed raising the mark's value on grounds such action would reduce exports and cause unemployment. Revaluation will make German products less competitive abroad.

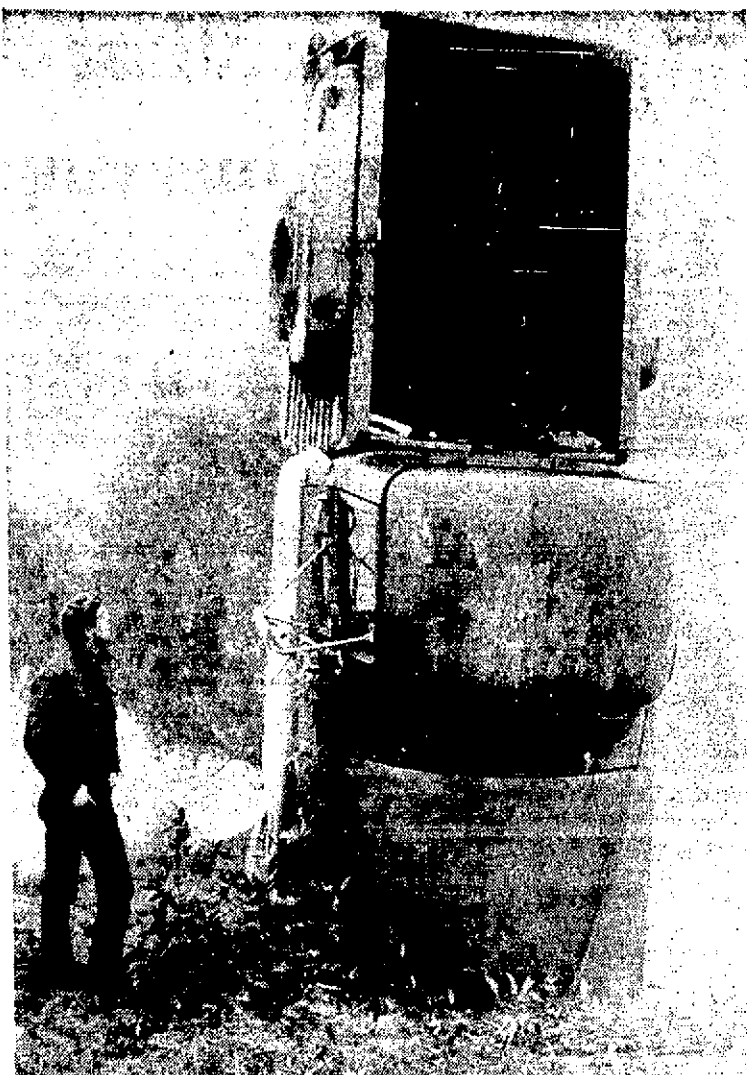

One day after the Sept. 28 election, the government freed the price of the mark and it rose rapidly. Prior to Friday's announcement the central bank was paying only 3.71 marks per dollar instead of four.

Money gamblers who bought German marks in recent months can now unload them at the new rate, coining fortunes estimated in millions of dollars.

Economics Minister Kurt Schiller told a news conference revaluation represented an 8.5 per cent increase in terms of buying dollars with marks, but an increase of 9.2896 per cent in terms of buying marks with other currencies. The decision, which Schiller called "courageous but not foolhardy," is certain to set off a wave of monetary revaluation in Europe.

GERMANY CAME under pressure to increase the value of its money a year ago and again this spring from countries suffering trade deficits which considered Germany's exports unfairly underpriced. Josef Ertl, the new minister for food, agriculture and forestry, told an interviewer Friday that he thought German farmers should be protected from the effects of revaluation by placing levies on imports and granting rebates for exports.

Ertl said he believed such a system should be maintained until other Common Market members adjust their currencies.

Riot Suspects Denied Parley With N. Viets

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal court judge Friday refused to allow two defendants in the Chicago riot conspiracy trial to go to Paris over the weekend to meet with a member of the North Vietnamese peace delegation at his invitation.

The 7th U.S. Court of Appeals promptly upheld the decision of U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman.

Defense attorney William M. Kunstler said he would make a hurry-up flight to the French capital in behalf of David T. Dellinger and Rennie C. (Rennie) Davis, two leaders of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

In arguing before Hoffman that Dellinger and Davis be permitted to make the trip, Kunstler said the proposed trip might "very well result in the release of some prisoners of war."

Dellinger told a news conference later there also was a possibility there might be a connection between the invitation from the North Vietnamese and the recent talks between Hanoi representatives and wives of American POWs.

In denying the motion, Hoffman said there were so many reasons that he would not detail them. He added that "I never enlarge bail provisions of a defendant who is on trial."

Kunstler took the issue to the Appeals Court in the form of an emergency motion. It was denied without explanation.

The lawyer for the "Chicago Eight" headed for O'Hare International Airport to catch a flight to New York, where he was to transfer to a Paris flight.

"If it can possibly lead to the release of some prisoners, I certainly think it is important enough," he said, when asked about the trip.

Dellinger and Davis are on trial before Hoffman with six other defendants on riot charges.

Kunstler told the judge the two antiwar leaders had received a letter from Xuan Oanh, member of the North Vietnamese delegation, inviting them to meet him to "discuss some very important matters."

In trial testimony, a reporter said he heard Tom Hayden, one of the defendants, tell an unidentified telephone caller a few weeks before the convention that "we'll start the revolution now."

Michael Kilian, a reporter for the Chicago Tribune, said he overheard Hayden's end of the conversation when the call interrupted his interview with the onetime organizer of Students for a Democratic Society in May, 1968.

"Fine, send them on out," Kilian quoted Hayden. "We'll start the revolution now. Do they want to fight?"

Kilian testified as a government witness.

Haynsworth Wins Backing

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's controversial nominee for the Supreme Court, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, Jr., received further expressions of support at the White House Friday and won an endorsement from 16 past presidents of the American Bar Association.

'Tax Rich' Proposal Approved

WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee voted Friday to collect an estimated $700 million yearly from wealthy individuals and corporations who now pay little or no income tax.

The circumstances that allow a good many millionaires to escape paying any income taxes have been one of the main goals of the tax reform bill now being shaped in Congress.

In its version of the bill, the House included a minimum tax plan designed to collect about $545 million from such persons. The Senate committee revised this plan so as to cover more persons but to put a somewhat smaller tax bite on many of them. It also voted to apply the plan to corporations as well as individuals.

Thus some large oil companies which now pay no federal income taxes because of various tax benefits such as the depletion allowance would be required to pay a minimum levy under the Senate version.

The Senate plan would work this way:

The individual or corporation would add up all of his tax preference items, subtract from the total a $30,000 exemption, and then pay a 5 per cent tax on the remainder.

Tax preference items are those on which the taxpayer now escapes any levy or pays at a preferential, low rate.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said Finance Committee decisions taken so far on the bulky tax reform bill would raise about $200 million less a year than the estimated $6.8 billion in the House version.

"When we have finished, we may well have just as much of a revenue gain or perhaps even more than the House," Long said.

The principal reform provision still to be acted on is the one affecting tax-exempt foundations. It is to be considered next Monday and Tuesday.

So far the committee has acted chiefly on sections of the bill which affect corporations and individuals. The income tax relief provisions, which total $9.2 billion in the House bill, are to be considered late next week, just prior to the Oct. 31 deadline on which Long has pledged to complete committee action.

ever, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., who earlier announced his opposition to the judge, said he thought there was a "good chance" that the Senate would not yield enough votes for confirmation.

"We are very close to a sufficient number of votes to stop the nomination," the Senate's only Negro told a news conference.

AND SEN. BIRCH BAYH, D-Ind., who has led the attack on Haynsworth, said that his own count showed 49 certain votes against confirmation, including 11 Republicans. He said his tally showed 38 votes for the judge, with 13 undecided.

"If these 49 stay firm," he said, "there is not any way the White House can win this one."

The support of the 16 past presidents of the Bar Association was conveyed in a telegram to Sen. James O. Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The telegram cited the recent endorsement of the judge by the Bar Association's committee on the federal judiciary and said:

"We have full confidence in the processes and judgment of the A.B.A. accordingly, we affirm our support of Judge Haynsworth and urge his confirmation as a justice of the Supreme Court."

AT ABOUT the same time that Eastland was reading his telegram to reporters—and Brooke was giving his prognosis elsewhere on Capitol Hill—the White House presented Hiram L. Pong, R-Hawaii, to newsmen gathered for the regular morning briefing in press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler's office.

The White House does not ordinarily sponsor news briefings by members of Congress. But Pong had met earlier with the President on a variety of matters, including the Haynsworth nomination. He reaffirmed his support for the judge and, apparently at Ziegler's suggestion, consented to convey the same views in the press.

"MR. ZIEGLER thought

I should talk to you," Pong said in answer to a question.

Pong, who earlier had voted for the judge during deliberations of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which approved the nomination by a 10-7 margin, said he believed that the nominee would be approved by the entire Senate.

He said he remained convinced that Haynsworth had done nothing wrong and asserted that "actually the opposition comes from those who disagree with his philosophy."

THE JUDGE'S critics have charged that he acted improperly ethically and showed poor judgment by participating in several cases involving companies that did business with a vending machine company that he partly owned and by ruling on appeals involving parties in which he owned some stock interest.

The Bar Association's Committee on the Federal Judiciary, headed by Lawrence E. Walsh, a New York lawyer, unanimously endorsed Haynsworth in September, before some of these charges had been raised. Two weeks ago it reconvened, and "by a substantial majority"—but not by unanimous vote—reaffirmed its earlier endorsement.

CREDIT CARD TEST AT FINGERTIPS

HEMET (UPI) — An engineer has devised what he feels is a foolproof method for instant verification of credit cards. It's based on fingerprints and an alarm system.

Thurlo M. Morrow, 48, said the device will scan an electronic picture of the holder's fingerprint on the card and compare it with the user's finger.

"BASICALLY what it does is this," Morrow says. "When a person gets a credit card, a picture of his fingerprint will be taken and will be converted to an electronic signal and the signal will be embedded in the card with an electro-chemical process."

"The service station, or whatever place uses the system, will have a little piece of machinery. You will put your finger in one end and the card in the other."

"If they don't match, various alarms can be set up — a red or green light may go on, or a noise . . . it can be adapted to anything like that."

MORROW says the credit card holder won't be able to see the impression of his fingerprint and it cannot be erased like magnetic tape.

Morrow is negotiating with a credit card manufacturer to go into production. He has a patent pending on the card. Morrow, who worked on the device parttime for nine years, operates an engineering consultant firm.

School Integration Maneuver Denied

FRESNO (UPI) — A Superior Court judge has turned down a legal maneuver by the state to require the Bakersfield City School District to correct racial imbalance.

While denying a writ of mandate to force the district to take action, Judge Kenneth Andreen admitted there was ample evidence indicating Bakersfield city schools have been racially segregated since 1950.

Andreen said the state attorney general's office had failed to show what "reasonable steps" could be taken to correct the imbalance.

"THE STATE may have a case under California law. If so, it has not proved it," Andreen said in a memorandum decision which denied the writ of mandate.

"Some of the schools in the district are overwhelmingly populated with students of minority racial and ethnic groups," Andreen declared.

He said the imbalance has become "progressively aggravated since 1950" because of residential patterns and not by "gerrymandering of school attendance boundaries."

The attorney general's office argued it was up to the district to come up with a solution to the segregation problem, but Andreen said there was no legal provision to force the district to do so.

There is no legal precedent stating that racial imbalance caused by residential patterns violates a student's rights to equal protection under the law, the judge added.

'BLASTOFF' IN ANAHEIM

Cosmonauts Reach Moon--at Disneyland

United Press International

Two touring Russian cosmonauts "blasted off" for the moon Friday at Disneyland.

Maj. Gen. Georgiy Beregovoy and scientist Konstantin Feoktistov went on the "Flight to the Moon" ride in the "Tomorrowland" section at the famous Southern California amusement park.

"Wow," exclaimed Beregovoy as the circular amphitheater trembled and the roar of a rocket launch thundered from the speakers during the simulated blastoff from earth.

Outside the moon flight building the visitors from the Soviet Union were presented with Mickey Mouse wrist watches by two famous Walt Disney characters, Goofy and Mickey, attired in space suits and helmets.

"Thank you very much," Beregovoy said as he donned a Mickey Mouse cap sprouting two round ears. "Now we are admitted to this particular society."

Beregovoy, dressed in a brown suit with a turtle-neck shirt, lived up to his reputation as a livewire, gesturing and conversing animatedly with U.S. astronaut Eugene Cernan, who is accompanying the cosmonauts on their tour of the United States.

Feoktistov, dressed in a conservative gray suit, has come on as a deadpan in other cities but he seemed to loosen up during the tour of the "Magic Kingdom."

During the moon flight, television screens on the ceiling and floor of the room depicted the flight of an earth to moon rocket.

Deregovoy, sitting with Cernan, pointed out landmarks on the lunar landscape as it rolled by on the screen and laughed as the room shook when the "rocket" landed on the moon.

Also on the tour was a submarine ride—aboard a vessel named the George Washington—a spin on the "rocket jets" 60 feet above the ground, a look at a movie glorifying "America the Beautiful" and a cruise through Jungleland.

Feoktistov left the tour for a time during the morning for what a State Department aide termed a "private meeting" at the Disneyland Hotel. The spokesman would not elaborate.

The cosmonauts accomplished what Nikita Khrushchev couldn't 10 years ago. The former Soviet premier wanted to visit Disneyland on his 1959 visit but U.S. and Soviet security chiefs decided it was too risky.

Profs Blast Assembly For Querying Tenure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Association of California College Professors responded Friday to state legislators' charges that the academic tenure system is abused and in effect guarantees professors a job for life.

In a statement delivered at the second and final day of an Assembly subcommittee hearing on the system, the group said:

"For the Legislature to address itself to faculty tenure in the face of present circumstances is most curious."

The ACSCP, which represents about a third of the 9,000 professors in the 18-college system, said the subcommittee should be more concerned about the high rate of faculty turnover and staff vacancies than the tenure system.

Despite testimony in defense of the system heard Thursday and Friday, committee members remained doubtful about the situation.

John Stull, R-San Diego, chairman of the subcommittee on educational environment, questioned "automatic tenure" to newly-hired faculty who had not taught in California before. He asked Angus Taylor, UC vice president for academic affairs, whether tenure was used as "a recruiting device."

TAYLOR answered that the procedure is almost always limited to professors who have acquired tenure elsewhere or who have been offered tenure by another university.

Taylor said the purpose of tenure is to insure academic freedom. He said it is granted by giving the title of professor or associate professor after a probationary period of up to eight years.

In response to questioning, Taylor said only four tenured professors out of about 3,500 had been fired at the University of California over the last five years. He conceded that the figures implied that all the remaining tenured professors were fully competent and provided quality education.

"I really can't believe that inference," said committee member William Campbell, R-Los Angeles.

Girl Sex Novelist With Angel Face

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "I just want a chance to express myself," said Jeanne Rejaunier, latest feminine novelist to make a Puritan of Balzac.

A former model and star of television commercials, Miss Rejaunier has the face of an angel, radiating innocence. Her voice is timid; her manner shy.

She appears for all the world as if she's just emerged from a cloister.

HER BOOK, however, throbs with requited sexual escapades.

If Jeanne is expressing herself accurately, she must be the most sought-after authoress in memory. She confesses: "Some of the book is from personal experience and much of it is from observation."

If a male author had written "The Beauty Trap" he would be hanged by the thumbs.

Jeanne Rejaunier's work must be placed along the shelf with Jacqueline Susann's and Gwen Davis' recently published literary efforts, providing the bookshelf is lined with asbestos.

Like he others, Jeanne resolutely denies her book is dirty.

"I don't consider my novel salacious," Jeanne said in her tiny voice. "It bothers me when I'm put on the defensive."

"Some television shows haven't interviewed me on the air because they thought the book was too risqué."

What the talk show hosts feared was instant unemployment.

JEANNE SAID she wrote only of things she knew. "I know the world of modeling and commercials, and I think I reported on them fairly. lot of models agree with me and have told me so."

"The younger models think it is a glamorous and exciting life. But beneath it all is hard work. It's boring and unchallenging and the people you work with don't even treat you like a human being."

"Even though writing is a lonely way to make a living, I prefer it to making commercials and modeling."

Jeanne appeared in some 60 commercials for television — huckstering soap, beverages and cigarettes which she doesn't smoke.

Asked if she could explain the rash of sex-laden books by females, Jeanne said their success was due to exploitation.

"WOMEN WRITERS are more willing to go out and promote their books," she said. "We go on radio and television to attract attention to our work. Also the media prefer talking to women."

"It's easier for a man to write a dirty book because they've been writing them for years. The public never thinks twice if a man is vulgar, but it's shocked if a woman is."

One shocked lady is Jeanne's mother.

"She objected to the four letterwords," Miss Rejaunier explained. "But I told her that kind of language was filtering up from the kids."

MRS. LESLIE FROST BALLANTINE, 70, left, of New York, poet Robert Frost's only surviving child, and Frost's great-grandson, Prescott Frost Wilber, 11, confer with film producer G. William Gahagan, standing, about documentary film on the poet's early years. Mrs. Ballantine and the boy, on vacation from school in Fairfield, Conn., have parts in the film being produced for educational television. Will Geer, right, plays the part of Frost as an adult.

Daughter to Play in Frost Film

SAN FRANCISCO — Robert Frost's daughter, here to play in a documentary film about his early years, hopes it will correct a misconception that her famous father was "just a New England poet."

Mrs. Lesley Frost Ballantine, 70, Frost's only surviving child, said the title poem in his first book of poems, "A Boy's Will," reminded Frost of San Francisco where he lived until he was 11.

"HE ALWAYS remembered San Francisco as one of the most brilliant of cities — in the quality of light, I mean," said Mrs. Ballantine, a tanned white-haired woman with a strong resemblance to her father. She lives in New York and in summer runs a girls' school in LaGranja, Spain.

G. William Gahagan of nearby Atherton, a motion picture producer and long-time Frost buff, is making the film for educational television. He hopes to follow up with others on Frost's years in Derry, N.H. and in England.

GAHAGAN said Frost who died in 1963, was born here in 1874, and not in 1875 as he always told biographers. The poet's exact birthplace, however, remains unknown, and loss of records during the 1906 earthquake complicates research.

SUB FOR AILING CONDUCTOR

NEW YORK (AP) — William Steinberg, 70, new music director of the Boston Symphony, was taken ill at the podium at Philharmonic Hall Wednesday night, forcing a 24-year-old assistant conductor from Los Angeles to complete the concert.

Steinberg, who underwent an operation last summer, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital. A symphony official said later the conductor had been released, was resting comfortably and that there was no cause for concern.

For the young assistant conductor, Michael Tilson Thomas, it was a golden opportunity that he made the most of, according to New York Times music critic Harold S. Schonberg.

"A tall, thin young man," Schonberg wrote of Thomas, "he came on stage with an air of immense confidence and authority, and showed that his confidence was not misplaced."

"Everything sounded clear, propulsive and vital," the critic said. "Thomas knows his business, and we shall be hearing from him again."

Thomas conducted Robert Starer's Concerto for Violin, Cello and Orchestra, and Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel." Before he was stricken, Steinberg led the Boston Symphony through Beethoven's "Consecration of the House" Overture

Hahn Demands Auto Bosses at Smog Trial

By BILL MAYER
From Our L. A. Bureau

The day of confrontation in the smog conspiracy case against the automobile makers is Tuesday, the place is federal court in Los Angeles.

The U. S. government wants to file a settlement, but cities, counties and five states insist this is the wrong way to go about it.

"Unless there is a settlement," said U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, "there will be years of delay. This is a civil case. It can go on for a long time in the courts."

Local governments see things differently. They are not thinking in terms of the progress of a civil suit.

"The presidents of the car companies, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, should be ordered to come to Los Angeles and stand trial," said County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

THAT WILL be the position of Assistant County Counsel David Mix, who will argue the case for local forces before Federal Judge Jesse W. Curtis.

Hahn has hammered away for weeks on the possibilities of criminal prosecution. Starting in 1966 there was an 18-month secret federal Grand Jury investigation into smog, and in a public trial, Hahn holds, the findings would come out.

None of this, in Mitchell's view, will solve the smog problem. A settlement in the civil suit, the Attorney General's office argues, will mean an agreement by the automobile manufacturers to compete against each other toward a solution. It is designed to close a time gap.

Hahn and the forces he has mobilized all over the country believe the industry is not interested in eliminating smog and, given the chance, will continue stalling.

MONDAY Hahn will meet with 16 attorneys representing cities, counties and states, "to map out joint strategy for Tuesday's hearing," he said.

They represent a swelling chorus of protest.

Los Angeles County, spurred by Hahn's eloquent outrage, started the fight. Other counties joined in filing objections with the court — Riverside, Santa Barbara and San Francisco.

Cities came along too — Beverly Hills, Los Angeles, Redlands, New York, San Diego, Riverside, Long Beach and Corona.

The protesting states are Illinois, New Mexico, New Jersey and Maryland.

Forty-six congressmen are sending a lawyer to fight the U.S. government at the hearing.

Objections were filed by Action on Smoking and Health, the United Auto Workers International, the Clean Air Council, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the American Civil Liberties Union.

FROM LEISURE WORLD 4,000 Petition to Halt Pollution

More than 4,000 signatures on petitions designed to eliminate smog in California by legislation were formally presented to representatives of the People's Lobby Friday afternoon at Seal Beach Leisure World.

Representing about 40 per cent of the Leisure World residents, the signatures were gathered by a working force of more than 350 workers who canvassed the huge complex door-to-door.

The People's Lobby, originators of the petitions is a year-old, statewide, non-profit corporation dedicated to the proposition that all efforts so far to control smog have failed and that the only solution to the problem lies in organizing the state's population and demanding the problem be solved.

THE TWO petitions calls for initiative votes by the people on two amendments: one to the Constitution and the other to the State Health and Welfare Code.

The Constitutional amendment would declare the state's policy on "pollution of air, land and water . . . and the primary responsibility to eliminate pollution is on those causing it and the major burden of pollution control shall not be placed on individuals."

The Health and Welfare amendment would require each industrial or manufacturing plant to "record and publish a statement of pollution discharges" within six months after the effective date of the amendment and to make a similar report every month thereafter.

It would further provide that those producing excessive pollution be required, "on request of any citizen", to reduce their discharges to 1 per cent within five years and provides "penal sanctions and civil penalties" for violators.

The Leisure World campaign is the first of a series to be conducted throughout Orange County, according to James Lane, county chairman.

AT THE Seal Beach ceremonies Guy L. Mensch, chairman of the Presidents Council of Leisure World, presented the petitions to Lane.

The Los Angeles area Chamber of Commerce Friday came out in support of the Justice Department's consent decree with auto makers, contending the anti-trust suit would do more harm than good for Southern California.

The decree, according to chamber spokesmen, will enable the auto industry to devote its full resources to finding effective solutions to the smog problem.

Attorney Paul E. Iverson, a director and past president of the chamber, and Clean Air Committee chairman Durward Howes III, told newsmen that auto makers should be allowed to exchange basic research and patent information relating to automotive-based smog control concepts and equipment.

Teen-Agers Seek 500 for Hospital Fund Drive

The Long Beach contingent of the Southern California Danny Thomas Teen-Agers March for St. Jude's Research Hospital is trying to recruit some 500 local marchers.

The march to raise funds for the Memphis, Tenn., children's hospital will be held Nov. 14-22 according to co-chairmen Carla Goodfellow and Linda Anderson.

Marchers will go door-to-door to solicit funds, and will end their week of tramping through the city's streets with a victory celebration featuring entertainment by Thomas and others.

The co-chairmen are both juniors at Jordan High School here.

CSLB NON-GRADING ROW

Profs Supported

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

More than 100 students Friday launched a drive to save the jobs of two controversial sociology teachers who have refused to grade their classes at California State College at Long Beach.

Resolutions regarding the two assistant professors — Dr. Don Robertson and Prof. Marion Steele — are up for action next week before the student senate and two departmental student associations.

The two teachers say the Retention, Tenure Appointment and Promotion Committee of the sociology department voted not to retain Steele and to deny Robertson tenure.

This would not affect their teaching status this academic year, but it would mean they could not teach at CSLB in 1970-71.

THE TEACHERS SAY they'll begin appealing the RTA & P Committee decision next week, starting with a request to discuss the case with the committee.

Robertson and Steele have said they'll have students grade themselves in their cotaught "Social Myths in Contemporary America" class.

Robertson said the RTA & P committee moved against him because of that grading policy. The committee took action against Steele both because of his grading policy and his failure to finish his doctoral dissertation, he said.

In an in-class ceremony Oct. 13, Robertson burned his completed dissertation, Steele burned his completed-but-unsubmitted dissertation and Prof. Walt Hunt burned his research notes.

Sociology Chairman S. John Dackawich, who presided at a stormy department meeting Monday in which 100 students protested action against Robertson and Steele, said final decision on the two teachers' status must be made by the college president by Dec. 1.

He called the professors' refusal to assign grades "a complete abrogation of academic procedure" and noted that "students could give themselves As and do no work."

At Friday's meeting — attended by students from the "Social Myths" class, campus activists and others — a steering committee was formed to plan a petition drive, rallies or more radical action to save the professors' jobs.

During the meeting, students debated why Robertson and Steele were fired and what should be done about it. Points raised included:

—The main issue is "abolishing a grading system which prepares students to fit into the slots of society instead of educating them."

—The main issue is academic freedom — "the right of teachers to run their classes as they see fit."

—The main issue is not the jobs of Robertson and Steele at all — "We can't organize a rally everytime a professor is fired" — but the basic problem is changing the entire educational structure.

SEVERAL STUDENTS AGREED that Robertson and Steele "were fired because they threw down the gauntlet to the whole educational system" in refusing to give grades.

"They were offed because they're undermining other classes," one student said.

IRRELEVANT

Doctors Rip Health Plan

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Hundreds of public health workers Friday heard their profession branded as "irrelevant" in today's society.

The charge was leveled by speaker after speaker at the 42nd annual meeting of the Southern California Public Health Association in Long Beach Elks Club.

The accusation was made by physicians and health administrators who also termed public health personnel as bureaucratic, complacent and guilty of talking only to one another.

Dr. Rodney N. Powell, Los Angeles, director of the South Central Multipurpose Health Services Center, was the first to label public health as "not relevant."

He criticized the "administrative bureaucracy" seen in today's public-health departments and added that the "proliferation of this nonsense starts at the federal level."

IN ADDITION, HE CHARGED that public health departments are ignoring the mandate of existing legislation. Existing codes, such as building regulations, are not being enforced, he asserted.

"There are 40 million people in the United States in desperate need of restoration of health and maintenance of health," Dr. Powell said.

Relevancy, he said, would consist of a comprehensive health-care system characterized by health centers in accessible locations and tailored to the care of families.

"They say there's a manpower shortage," he continued, "but public health does have the manpower. Yet it does not have the will and direction."

Dr. Hubert L. Hemsley, Compton, a private practitioner in obstetrics and gynecology, said health problems in urban areas have reached a crisis stage.

And any programs to solve current problems will fail if consideration is not given to the "mores, thoughts and actions of the recipient population," he said.

In the Watts, Willowbrook and Compton area, he said, "we stand in dire jeopardy of receiving another medical center where a new heart transplant is performed but a center that is unable to combat venereal disease, tuberculosis, maternal mortality in any efficient manner."

"THE PROGNOSIS IS INDEED GUARDED," he continued, "and again the desires of the inner city residents take second priority to those who know what is best for us."

Dr. Hemsley said that doctors predicted socialism when Social Security began. Doctors also fought Blue Shield but now claim it as their own. Then they fought Medicare but now claim it as their own.

"Now doctors are fighting national health insurance," he said.

"Any public health approach which fails to understand the culture it serves can never successfully imple-

Seven Navy ships are open to the public this weekend as a prelude to Long Beach's celebration of Navy Day Monday.

The missile frigate USS England is at the Naval Station's Pier 15 and the fleet oiler USS Tappan-nock at Pier 9, both open from 1-4 p.m. today and Sunday.

In San Pedro the rocket laboratory ship USS Norton Sound will welcome visitors at Berth 55. At Berth 72 the ocean minesweepers USS Persistent, Endurance and Pluck will also offer tours on the same schedule as the naval station's.

Today only from noon to 4 p.m. on Pier E the amphibious transport dock USS Denver is celebrating her first birthday and is open for visiting.

Orange County Readies Ban on Nude Dancing

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

The "no nudes is good nudes" forces are girding for a drive to put tops and bottoms on topless and bottomless entertainers in Orange County and several of its cities.

A model ordinance will be drawn up by the Orange County League of Cities and offered to members for adoption. And county officials have indicated they will draft a similar ordinance or adopt the one approved by the cities.

The county has already successfully prosecuted several bottomless dancers.

The state recently gave local governments control over public nudity, and Los Angeles and Sacramento counties quickly moved to adopt ordinances covering bars and restaurants. Theaters and concert halls have remained exempt.

Turn Back Your Clocks 'n' Watches

Spring forward, fall backward!

That's the simple memory jigger for those of you who aren't sure what to do with your clocks and watches this weekend.

To be more precise, daylight saving time gives way to standard time at 2 a.m. Sunday, so before bed tonight set your timepieces back an hour and you'll be all set until spring.

A FISHY TALE TOLD IN SAN PEDRO—

Fishermen's Fiesta officials help mermaid-costumed Skipperette Jill Moseley to her dockside throne Friday at Berth 73, Los Angeles Harbor. "Don't throw her back, she measures up to the job," quipped Assemblyman Jess Unruh (left), chief officiant at the opening ceremonies of the three-day event. Band and rock music, carnival attractions, fishing contests, yacht races and folk dancing continue from noon to midnight each day, climaxed by a parade of decorated fishing vessels in the San Pedro Channel and outer harbor at 1 p.m. Sunday.

UNITED WAY VOLUNTEERS

Drive Needs 1,000

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

The United Way's annual fund drive in the Long Beach area has passed the quarter mark on its way to a $1.7 million goal this year, but crusade leaders said Friday the drive is being seriously hampered by a shortage of volunteers.

"We desperately need 1,000 more doorbell ringers and block workers," said E. John Hanna, this year's drive, was launched Oct. 3 and is supposed to conclude officially Nov. 21, but Johnstone said extended orientation sessions for the volunteers this year have pushed the closing date to Dec. 10.

On that date, the crusade expects to have reached its objective of $1,604,997, or roughly $300,000 more than was collected for fiscal 1968-69. To date, the crusade this year has collected $460,348.

This year's campaign officially covers two new communities in the Long Beach area: Artesia and Cerritos. The others are Long Beach, Signal Hill, Bellflower, Lakewood, Hawaiian Gardens and Paramount.

AS IN the past four years, the proceeds will be split, the United Way getting 70 per cent of the money.

The United Way, said Johnstone, serves as a federation of donors whose contributions support 90 per cent of the private health, welfare and youth services in the county.

The Red Cross, he explained, collaborates with the federation only during the fund drive.

campaign chairman. (Hanna in private life is the Long Beach representative of the Navy's regional office of civilian manpower management.)

He and Jack Johnstone, director of the Long Beach area United Way, said the campaign normally requires 2,500 volunteers, but is operating this year with only 1,500. The shortage is not a new phenomenon, but it's a worrisome one nonetheless, the two men said.

EARLIER, Hanna and Johnstone spoke to 200 volunteers and private agency representatives at the crusade's first report luncheon of the year, held at the Elks Club. Robert Farnum, executive secretary of the Armed Services YMCA in Long Beach, emceed part of the meeting.

10 Acres OKd for Sewer Plan

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

The Los Angeles Harbor Department this week agreed to reserve 10 acres of land for a $20 million expansion of the Terminal Island sewage treatment plant.

Request for the harbor land adjacent to the present facility was made by Donald C. Tillman, chief deputy city engineer of Los Angeles.

He said anticipated increased use of the Port of Los Angeles by the shipping industry plus the projected residential growth of the adjoining harbor communities will cause serious overloading of the present sewer system.

The expanded treatment plant's capacity would more than double, increasing from the present capacity of 14 million gallons per day to 30 million gallons per day.

TILLMAN SAID ALSO THE QUALITY of the waste water discharged from the new facility would be "enhanced considerably."

The facility would not only provide additional service for the port but would increase the handling capacity of sewage from Wilmington San Pedro, Terminal Island, and portions of Harbor City.

Tillman pointed out the geographic and topographic isolation of the communities adjacent to the port area requires a separate system for sewage collection, treatment, and disposal.

Target date for completion of the planned expansion of the Terminal Island plant would be in 1973.

The State Water Resources Control Board meeting in Santa Barbara last week agreed to request the City of Los Angeles to provide a plan by March 1970 for the collection of domestic waste and industrial process water and for the treatment and disposal of these wastes other than into the inner harbor of the Port of Los Angeles.

MAYOR AIDS U.N. FLAG RITE

Mayor Edwin Wade Friday officiated at hoisting of blue and white United Nations flag over Long Beach City Hall, as city's observance of U.N. Week neared close. Joining mayor in simple rite were Mrs. Thomas Sato, U.N. Day chairman, left, and Miss Evelyn Davis, president of Long Beach Chapter, United Nations Association. Similar ceremony was held at Lakewood City Hall.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Some of your friends already may have asked you what you know about the Kiwi fruit displayed at the local market vegetable-fruit stand.

It is more than just a novelty introduction from New Zealand. The fruit is about two-and-one-half inches long by one-and-a-half inches wide and approximately one-and-a-half inches thick. It is oblong, slightly rounded at the corners, tan in color and has sandpaper texture cover.

The one-third of the fruit in the center is white, surrounded by green meat. One-fourth of the green fruit around the white is imbedded with numerous seeds. The over-all taste of the fruit and edible seeds is somewhat like gooseberry.

The botanical name of this Kiwi fruit is Actinidia chinensis. It originated in China where it grows as a vigorous vine, the foliage nearly round and about six inches diameter.

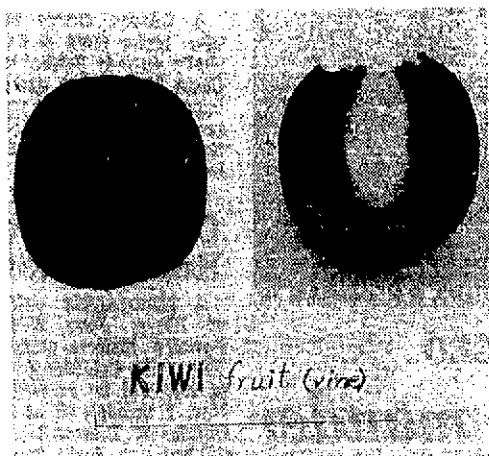

KIWI PLANTS are not available at your local nursery and probably won't be for some time.

So far as we know, there's one estate in Santa Barbara that obtained an agricultural permit to import four of the Kiwi plants. They are carefully grown. It will be interesting to see them a year or two from now.

We're sure you won't be pleased about it, yet you'll be glad to know why some of your zinnias looked a little sick. Some foliage turned gray-green and the lower leaves became brown around the edge, eventually becoming completely brown and dried up. Flowers on the plants looked limp yet the soil was moist. This wasn't because the plants purchased from the nursery were poor. The condition happened some time after the plants had grown in the garden. It was caused by flying insects that deposited eggs in the upright stems which hatched into stem borers. These bore down the stems causing the plants to become wilted.

We even found a partly wilted zinnia in a flat of young zinnias, which was a rarity. The nurseryman gave us permission to pull up the plant. We split the stem downward and found minute slug-like borers nearly the color of water and jellylike. We proved to the nurseryman the cause of the wilt.

About the only solution is to treat the soil with one of the stomach type insecticide dusts before the annuals are set out in the fall for winter-spring blooming. Soil still may be treated even though you already may have planted the annuals. In late spring the soil again should be treated with insecticide dust after the annuals have finished blooming and have been removed and the soil readied for summer-flowering annuals.

AGAPANTHUS, Lily of the Nile, are more likely to blossom if they're planted in sun or in more sun than shade. We'd hesitate to recommend planting them in full sun in desert-like areas. In milder sectors, they'll stand lots of sun.

Clumps growing in the ground for the past several years and still not blooming should be dug up now, separated and replanted where they'll get lots more sun. The old knobby plants within the center of the old clump should be thrown away and the younger plants surrounding them should be replanted. Work bone meal into the soil when replanting them. Keep newly set-out plants moist until they develop new growth, then water as the soil dries.

We had a personal experience with a clump of agapanthus on the north side of the house. They didn't bloom until plants were reset in a west-exposure flower bed. The leaves in shade were dark green but there were no flowers. In lots more sun, west exposure, the foliage was much lighter green in color. We didn't mind that, as the plants furnished blooms.

Another long narrow bed of agapanthus grew on the west side of a two-story apartment house adjoining the hard packed ground where cars were driven over a dirt driveway. The plants seemingly thrived.

CLUB NOTES

Orange County Rose Society's 4th Annual Rose and Arrangement Show will be held today and Sunday. Cosponsored by the city of Westminster the show site will be the Westminster Recreation Building, 8200 Westminster Ave. Lyman Cralle, Santa Ana, is serving as Show Chairman.

The show is open to both novice and experienced exhibitors. No entry fee is charged. Thirteen major specimen sections, nine advanced and five novice arrangement sections will be featured. Rules of the American Rose Society for exhibiting and judging will prevail.

Public viewing will be 1 to 7 p.m. on today and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Judging will take place at 10:00 today followed by a judge's luncheon under the direction of Mrs. Richard Carlson.

First, second, and third place ribbons will be awarded in each class. All first place winners will be rejudged to determine section winners. Twenty-eight awards will be given in specimen and arrangement sections.

The overall arrangement theme: "Posies n' Politics" according to Mrs. Don Berg, arrangement chairman.

A first time feature of the show is a color movie "Birth of a Rose." The film and video screen have been made available by its producer the Jackson and Perkins Rose Growers.

The Orange County Rose Society meets the second Tuesday each month, 7:30 p.m. in the Westminster Recreation and Parks Building.

The Los Altos Garden Club will tour the South Coast Botanic Gardens in Palos Verdes, Nov. 5th at 12 noon with Mr. Henry Noerdlinger as guide.

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. — We have a large pampas grass bush in our garden. The blooms are lovely to cut in September for decorations. Some people spray them with different colors. I would like to try this and would greatly appreciate your suggestions. Mrs. S. W.

A. — One of the large nurseries didn't know how to treat the pampas grass to color them. The florist said one of the customers took the blossom before fully opened, and dipped the cut stem end into the flower-color dye, and the stem assumed the color. She checked with the Southern California Floral Association 756 Wall street, Los Angeles (627-1201) and was informed the colored pampas grass is shipped in from San Francisco Bay area, but how the growers color them remained unknown. Recently I went to a rose show in Lawndale sponsored by the South Bay Rose Society. I cornered three very well known flower arrangers who judged part of the rose show. Two of them lecture and hold flower arrangements classes. None of these experts knew how to color the pampas grass. Sorry Mrs. S.W. We sure tried to do our best for you. (Can one of our readers help Mrs. S.W.?)

Q. — My Valencia orange tree had fruit the first year. It was so sour no one could eat it. I was told to give it more citrus food, especially sulphate of ammonia. That helped some. Last year it was loaded with tiny oranges, but every one dropped off. I'm wondering if I fed it too much, or at the wrong time. Right now, the tree has a lot of new branches that look green and healthy, but the old branches look dry and curled, and there is no sign of blossoms. How often and at what times of the year should I water deep? What shall I do about feeding. Do you think a navel orange would do better! We also have a peach tree (late Elberta) which has lovely big peaches, but some of them rot from the inside by the time they are ripe. Some also have a sticky glazed substance on them. L.M.

A. — Usually for the first three years citrus trees or bushes bear no fruit but have hundreds of blossoms. Some of the blossoms form fruit, but these begin to drop when they reach the size of a nut or a bantam hen's eggs. The same thing happens the second year. Third year some fruit develops almost to normal size. Usually after the third year the home gardener begins to harvest the oranges or other citrus fruit. A new tree that bears the first year is most unusual. If there are no leaves on the dry branches, aphids could have damaged them considerably earlier in the year. Later spider mites could have caused damage. If you hadn't indicated a lot of new branches look green and healthy, the dry branches would have indicated the tree may have been planted too deep. (I hope not in a lawn!) Too deep means the bud union area is beneath the soil instead of several inches above the soil level. Frequency of watering depends upon the texture of your soil which could be coarse and porous (called sandy soil) or medium type soil which is not sandy, and not heavy clay or adobe soil. Light soil requires less water than medium soil. Medium soil needs more, and clay or adobe soil needs perhaps three times more amount of water. The frequency of watering also depends on weather conditions. Assuming your tree is about three years old, it should be watered long enough for the moisture to soak down two to three feet deep. It should be watered a foot or so beyond the drip-line of the tree branches. Feed the tree as directed on the fertilizer label.

Q. — What happened to my bonanza peach tree this season? I had it planted in the same 22 inch redwood planter box as last year. Last year was its first year to produce fruit and I got six beautiful peaches. This year it had eleven nice buds and started forming fruit. When the fruit grew to the size of a cherry all the fruit began to shrivel and dry. The fruit didn't fall off. They just dried up. Could it be that I sprayed too late? I also have a group of three flowering peach trees, planted in the yard which this year bore nice big edible fruit. There were about three branches on various parts of one tree having about six peaches that had the same thing happen. I have since planted the Bonanza peach in the garden soil. Mrs. C. C.

A. — You should not have transplanted the bonanza peach in the same 22 inch redwood box as last year, nor should you have planted the bonanza in the garden soil. Every time you replant from planter box or a container into the ground, you upset the fruit-formation cycle. Probably it will be two years or more before your Bonanza peach begins to hold fruit to ripening size.

The fruit that shrivelled and dried but didn't drop off could have been caused by a failure to thin the fruit spacing them four to six inches apart. The same condition on three branches of the flowering peaches seems to me calls for similar fruit thinning.

Q. — Every time we eat outside on our patio the flies just swarm in and bother us. I've heard there's a plant called "shoo fly" which keeps flies away. I've inquired at several places and they say they've never heard of it. Could you please tell me the name, or of a plant which I could use? D.G.

A. — One of the leading nurseries never heard of the "shoo fly" plant. It is claimed that sweet basil herb discourages flies. There's a sugar-bait fly-killer dry bait on the market. Ask for such a one.

T. K. had sent leaves and seeds after inquiring if it was an annual poinsettia. I kept the leaves and seeds after answering the question.

Recently I had an opportunity to check the annual poinsettia. I observed the plant closely. The foliage below the flowers appears similar. The lower leaves are larger and serrated. The sample leaves and seeds look similar to this plant's.

Q. — I have a large Maple tree about 15 years old. This tree gets plenty of deep watering, but the leaves start falling the middle of July and continue to fall in increasing numbers until the end of October. Is this normal for this area? M.W.

A. — There will be a light leaf shedding from the middle of July on. Deep watering around the tree trunk is not the proper watering of an older tree whether in a lawn or in open soil area. The tree must be watered about two feet beyond the drip-line (outer perimeter) of the tree. Deep watering of a tree in a coarse sandy porous soil may not be sufficient if watered too long and not enough. It would be better to water less deeply and more frequently.

HEALTH CARE HIT

ment programs which depend on human motivation, and well might meet with resistance in every area," he continued.

Dr. Hemsley said that other gaps besides the cultural can impede progress.

He identified one as a status gap — a gap between physicians (who, for the most part, are white, middle-class, Anglo-Saxon Protestants) and other health personnel. There's also a status gap between physician and patient, he added.

Dr. Hemsley continued:

"What people need most are dedicated humanistic physicians . . . individuals who plant their feet deep into the soil of the community and provide the needed empathy, understanding and concern . . . This will not be accomplished by merely building beautiful buildings and filling them with health professionals dedicated to esoteric goals of research — or physicians looking for a job for one year so that they can open an office in Orange County."

James Bates, acting chief of the Community Service Division of the South Central Multipurpose Health Services Center, said that public health programs should be decentralized.

Centralization has led to "white-oriented" programs, some of which border on the ridiculous, he said.

As an example, he said that narcotics literature is aimed entirely at the white youngster.

"This literature talks about 'speed' but the blacks are on heroin and 'downers' such as 'red devils.' All you're doing is introducing the kids to a new drug."

Mrs. Blanche Ross, public health nursing consultant to Head Start representing the Los Angeles County Health Department, charged that public health is "failing a large portion of our people."

SHE CALLED THE PUBLIC HEALTH SYSTEM "outdated" and said that emphasis should be placed on finding what people want and then aiding them. As things stand now, people get what the professionals say is best for them, she said.

Miss Faustina Solis, chief of the Farm Workers Health Service of the California State Department of Public Health, said that this best therapy costs nothing. "You cannot buy concern," she said.

Lloyd L. Lavender Rites Set Monday

Service will be Monday at 1 p.m. in Sheelar/Stricklin Mortuary for Lloyd L. Lavender, 66, who retired Sept. 1 as commissioner of Long Beach Municipal Court following a heart attack. He died Thursday at his home, 82 Giralda Walk.

Mr. Lavender assumed the commissioner post in 1961 after 16 years as chief clerk of the Municipal Court's Criminal Division.

During his tenure as commissioner, he served as judge pro tem, handling trials, preliminary hearings and arraignments in addition to presiding at night traffic court since 1965.

A native of Washington state, Mr. Lavender came to Long Beach in 1909. He received his law degree from UC-Berkeley and practiced in Long Beach from 1929 to 1937. He was then employed by the Los Angeles County Department of Charities until 1940, when he began his Municipal Court clerkship.

Mr. Lavender was chairman of the Municipal

LOYD L. LAVENDER

Court Clerks Association, which he helped found. He once smilingly said his chief claim to fame was the 1955 amendment which he helped sponsor "whereby municipal courts shall not be open for business on Saturdays."

Surviving are his wife, Berenice, and his mother, Mrs. Ada Lavender. Dr. Frank M. Kepner of First Baptist Church will officiate at the funeral.

Testimony Links Pair to Jewels

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

A Long Beach jewelry theft trial developed a diamond flush angle Friday as the prosecution sought to tie two defendants to a pair of other gem thefts.

A U.S. Border Patrolman and a highway patrolman described the discovery, loss, and subsequent recovery from the plumbing of the Sacramento Federal Building of $9,300 worth of diamonds.

THE TESTIMONY highlighted the fourth day of the grand theft trial of Darryl Vincent, 31, and Jeremy Frasch, 28, both formerly of Hollywood. They are charged with lifting $53,000 worth of fine diamond rings from the front showcase of the C. C. Lewis store, 333 Pine Ave., Dec. 10. Police have also connected the two with a gem theft ring they say operated throughout the U.S., Canada and the Bahamas.

Friday's testimony in Judge John Arguelles' courtroom include a report of a routine stop near Redding last November of a car with a license matching one on the Immigration Department's want list. In the car, according to CHIP officer Don McEntire, were defendant Vincent and two other men.

Because it was a cold day and the men were in short sleeved shirts, officers distributed coats, which were searched for weapons beforehand. In the pocket of one coat, McEntire said he found two boxes containing rings and diamonds, which he confiscated.

Both jewelry and prisoners were transported to the Sacramento Federal Building where immigration authorities questioned the trio.

Inspector W. T. Dodson said he discovered the jewelry missing from evidence envelopes and subsequently searched the defendants and the men's washroom without success.

IT WAS THEN he had the plumbing dismantled and from the sewer connection fished out the diamonds which were later identified as stolen from a Seattle jeweler.

The trial continues in Department D at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

MISSION CHANGED

New Commander for Ticonderoga

The USS Ticonderoga, the only carrier to make five Vietnam deployments, changed command Friday in Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Capt. Richard E. Fowler Jr. turned over his ship to Capt. William H. McLaughlin in a well-executed flight deck ceremony.

Guest speaker was Rear Adm. Martin D. Carmody, commander, Carrier Division 1.

The new skipper comes from command of the attack cargo ship USS Vermillion while Capt. Fowler becomes chief-of-staff to the Pacific Naval Air Force commander in San Diego.

L.B. Stadium Power-Boat Races Cut Back in 1970

Power-boat races in Marine Stadium will be cut about 40 per cent in 1970, on the basis of a policy adopted Thursday by the Recreation Commission.

Commissioners approved the recommendations of Alvin D. Hoskin, city director of recreation, that permits be issued for a maximum of eight power-boat events, which would total about 13 to 18 days of racing.

THIS WOULD not include events of the California International Sea Festival, which has not yet fixed its 1970 schedule.

During the current year, the commission approved permits for 30 days of racing, which included three Sea Festival events totaling seven days.

The new policy also specifies that not more than four of the eight events can be primarily drag-boat racing, and reduces the permitted times of racing to 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., except that Sunday racing is restricted to the hours from noon to 5 p.m.

The curtailment of power-boat racing is in response to a petition, signed by 600 persons in the Marine Stadium area, complaining about noise. The petition drive was spearheaded by the Marina Shores Improvement Association, and a delegation from the group was present Thursday.

James Smedley, vice chairman of the association, called the reduction "a step in the right direction," but said the group believes the cutback should have been greater. He said, however, that the association was "not trying to eliminate racing."

Smedley also commented that he was "more impressed with the reduction in the hours of racing than in the number of events."

Police Nab Escapee 'Visiting Friends'

A Garden Grove man who broke from a marshal's custody Friday in a Costa Mesa court and escaped under fire was rearrested visiting friends in Garden Grove, according to Costa Mesa police.

Marshal A. L. Eichler of Harbor Municipal Court said he was opening a holding tank to take some prisoners to court when John D. Faulkner, 26, of 12941 Hazel St. brushed him aside and ran to a waiting car.

Eichler fired two shots, both of which went wild.

Arrested later Friday was Daniel J. Rogers, 23, of 15082 Purdy St., Westminster, who was charged with aiding the escape.

Both men are scheduled to be arraigned Monday in Costa Mesa, Faulkner on a felony escape charge and Rogers on a misdemeanor.

Faulkner was about to be arraigned on a charge of burglary when he escaped.

Colorado River Exhibit Slated

A photographic exhibit of Major John Wesley Powell's historic exploration of the Colorado River in 1869 will be on display Nov. 1 through 30 at the Charles W. Bowers Memorial Museum, Santa Ana.

The Powell party also explored the Green River in Wyoming, which pours its waters into the Colorado.

His pictorial record, along with a detailed log of his trip and a treatise on his findings and observations, were published in his "Canyons of the Colorado" in 1905.

Derian, Eilerts Lead Way as Millikan Rips Jordan

By GARY ELLIS

Steve Derian scored three touchdowns, quarterback Kim Eilerts added two and the Millikan defense contained explosive Gary Rawson Friday night to lead the Rams past Jordan 36-20.

Derian and Eilerts were brilliant for the Rams. Derian carried the ball 27 times for 146 yards and Eilerts passed for 130 and ran for 37.

Even though Millikan held Rawson to his lowest rushing total of the season — 70 yards in 21 carries — the fleet Panther halfback scored all of Jordan's touchdowns and broke the school rushing mark.

Rawson shattered the old mark set by Steve Coker in 1967 by five yards. In six games Rawson has gained 1,077 yards on the ground. Friday night he also caught three passes for 37 yards and one TD.

Eilerts called a superb game for coach Roger Hull and the Rams. Millikan was faced with eight third down situations and the lanky quarterback got seven of them for first downs.

So complete was the Ram offensive machine that they were denied scoring only twice when they had the ball — once seconds before the half.

Jordan brought the 5,000 fans alive early in the game. Garcia hit Rawson on a 12-yard scoring pass and the Panthers drew first blood.

Eilerts and Derian got the Rams on the scoreboard 11 plays later. The duo handled the ball on ten plays in accounting for the entire drive. Derian scored from two yards out.

After the Rams blocked a Panther punt, Eilerts needed only four plays to score. He passed to Derian for 20 yards before the little scabber scored from two yards out. Eilerts passed for the two-point conversion and Millikan took a 14-7 halftime lead.

Opening the third quarter, Eilerts gained 24 yards in two carries and Derian added 48 for Millikan's next score. Derian capped the march on a nine-yard run, pushing him over the century mark for the night.

Rawson, limited to 25 yards rushing in the first half, then began to move. He gained 27 of the Panthers' 48 yards in their third quarter scoring drive, including a 5-yard TD run.

With the Ram lead cut to seven, 21-14, Eilerts began passing. He moved the team 70 yards in 15 plays and twice on third and long yardage situations found split end Bob Buckley open. Eilerts climax the march on a one-yard sneak.

away from trouble and threw a pass that was tipped into the arms of the diving Burns for a key 24-yard gain before McKinney whipped a seven-yard toss to the diving Jeff Tittgen for the score.

McKinney's alertness helped State to a 27-7 half-time lead.

The Broncos were rotating nearly the entire defense and McKinney, noting that a defensive back was late in getting over to split end Keith Huber, clipped a quick pass to Huber who sprinted past the startled Broncos on a 48-yard TD play. Don Evans kicked four of five PATs.

Except for Burns' fourth-quarter two-yard touchdown, which gave Cal State the game-deciding points, the final 20 minutes was all Santa Clara.

The Broncos, who had a first-half score on Holmes' one-yard run, rallied behind the passing of Pastorini to drive the 49ers to the ropes.

Pastorini completed 19 of 32 tosses for 262 yards and the TD to Jenks. The Broncos picked up the remainders of their points on three-yard TD runs by Darryl Stowers (third quarter) and Mike Caray (fourth period).

Gahr Edged by Mayfair

Mayfair and Gahr matched defenses Friday night in a Suburban League football game at Gahr with the Monsoons edging the Gladiators, 7-6. Mayfair had given up a touchdown after a bad pass from center was recovered in the Monsoon end zone. A bad pass from center, this time for the Gladiators, cost them the extra point and the game.

Mike Reddick scored the lone touchdown for Mayfair on a 20-yard pass from Tom Dellinger.

It's Homecoming for King Shack

"I've got a big mouth," says Eddie Shack.

It's not exactly a news item, but it does suggest why Shack will be wearing the purple instead of the gold when the Kings meet the Boston Bruins at the Forum tonight at 8.

Shack spent the previous two seasons at Boston where, he explains, "They sent me out to stir things up. If I got a penalty, they're mad and I wind up riding the bench."

"So I yapped off and said, 'Why don't you get rid of me?'"

Before Shack could think of anything else to say, he found himself in Ingleswood shaking hands with Red Kelly, perhaps his best friend in hockey.

"Then Kelly wasn't there. 'I was disappointed,'" Shack says, "because Leonard (nobody calls Kelly 'Leonard') and I got along really well. I scored 26 goals playing with him one year at Toronto."

So Shack wound up playing for Hal Laycoe, a methodical tutor who said, "If a guy's unorthodox, he's better off playing center for me."

Some nights it's hard to tell what position Shack is playing, but Laycoe soon learned it wasn't center. He moved the irrepressible Entertainer to right wing, then tried the left side. Immediately, Shack produced three goals, only his third hat trick in 12 National Hockey League seasons.

"I think I've settled on left wing," says Eddie, who played the spot two years ago at Boston. He is looking forward to greeting his old friends tonight.

"You get overanxious when you play your old team," he says with the authority of a guy playing for his fourth NHL club. "You like to show 'em, you know, 'Why did you trade me?'"

But Shack knows why. He's got a big mouth.

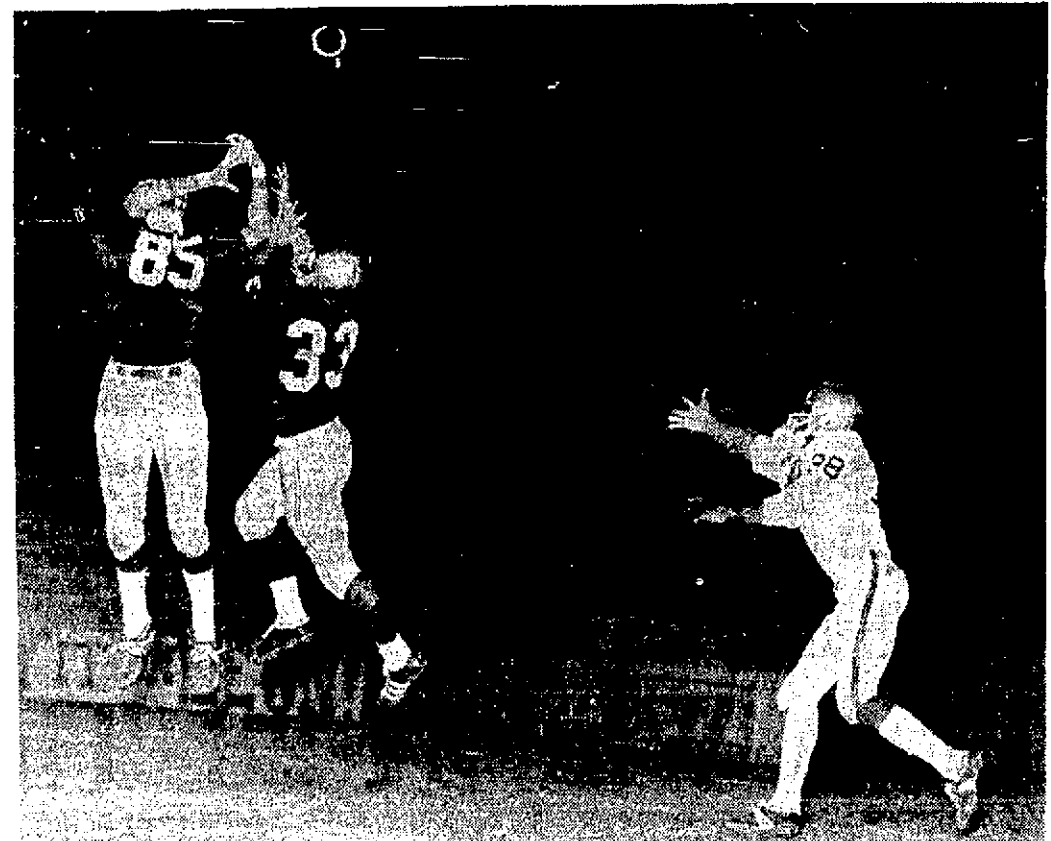

Boston remained unbeaten by downing Oakland, 4-2, Friday.

Third-Ranked Amat Crushes Outclassed St. Anthony, 42-19

By RICK ARTHUR

Third-ranked Bishop Amat blended the aerial artistry of quarterback Pat Haden and the power running of Manny Estrada and Pat Barthelme Friday night and steamrollered past outclassed St. Anthony, 42-19.

victory and running their overall record to 6-0, the powerful Lancers moved at will against the Saints and forced St. Anthony to rely almost exclusively on its passing game.

Jerry Summerfelt, despite limping noticeably throughout the final quarter, still managed to riddle the Bishop Amat secondary in the last half, completing 15 of 28 passes in the final 24 minutes for 212 yards. Two of his tosses went for touchdowns with sure-handed end Ray Lowman on the receiving end both times.

The payoff plays covered 37 and 15 yards. In all, Lowman hauled in 11 passes for 130 yards and Summerfelt wound up with 18 completions in 36 attempts.

Bishop Amat roared to a 28-0 halftime advantage while shutting off the St. Anthony ground game. The Saints marched for 53 gross yards but were repeatedly caught in the backfield and wound up the evening with a minus seven yards rushing.

Jim Nalty, who along with fellow tackle Tom Meckler backhanded the stingy Lancer defense, started the St. Anthony downfall by blocking a punt midway in the first quarter, giving Amat possession at the Saint 35. Seven plays later Barthelme barged into the end zone.

Amat roared 65 yards in nine plays the next time it touched the ball and the route was on.

The Saints, now 0-2 in league play and 1-4-1 over-all, managed a moral victory by shutting out split end John McKay Jr. McKay, son of the USC coach, tallied four TDs last week but failed to find the end zone against St. Anthony. However, he did latch onto a 44-yard bomb from Haden in the third quarter before he was tackled on the two. Barthelme scored his second touchdown of the night on the ensuing play.

"He's good, real good," Will went on, "But I knew that before today. He's quick and he fooled me a couple of times. He has great extension and his shots are hard to block."

Chamberlain rammed one Alcindor shot down his throat in the second period, making up for a similar achievement by Lew in the first period.

Alcindor said, "I felt I learned a lot tonight. Will didn't score 100 points, and

ARTS AND LETTERS CHOICE AT AQUEDUCT

$116,425 Oak Leaf Stakes Today

Combined News Services

A field of 10 two-year-olds, headed by Sailors Mate, is entered for today's inaugural running of the Oak Leaf Stakes at Santa Anita. It will gross $116,425 with $70,305 going to the winner.

First post is 1:30 p.m.

Sailors Mate, runaway winner of the Anoka Stakes early in the meeting, will be ridden by Laffit Pincay Jr., taking over for the suspended Bill Shoemaker.

The distance of the Oak Leaf is 1-1/16 miles on the main track, providing the distaff juveniles with their first test over a distance of ground. All carry equal weight of 115 pounds.

The 10-starters remain from an original nominations list last May 15 of 335 hopefuls, of which 128 remained eligible on a second payment last Aug. 16.

The field also includes Bold Broad, A to mic Wings, Opening Bid, Cathy Honey, Consider Me Lucky, a winner of four stakes, Court Gem, Last Of the Line, Loved and Tanta Bella. Regal Wine was a late scratch.

Hard-riding Donald Pierce went to the top of the Oak Tree jockey standings Friday by registering four victories, including a win aboard Westerly Stud's Gray Power in the featured $7,500 Silver Cloud purse.

Gray Power, a well-backed second choice to favored Vesperal, hung on determinedly in the final sixteenth to stave off the strong bid of New Concept.

Pennant II was third, with Apex II finishing fourth in the field of ten horses.

Vesperal wound up fifth. Gray Power, timed in 1:48 1/2 for a mile and one-eighth on the grass and paid $6,40, $4 and $3. New Concept returned $7 and $4.70 and Pennant II paid $7.

Elsewhere, Arts and Letters will be out to add to his earnings, his victory string and his chances of gaining Horse of the Year honors when he goes against three others Saturday in the gruelling 2-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct in New York.

Arts and Letters, with Braulia Baeza up, has been installed the 1-2 favorite against Nodouble, Oil Power and Harem Lady in the weight-for-age test. Arts and Letters gets in with 119 pounds as does Oil Power while Harem Lady will have to carry 121 and Nodouble 124.

Arts and Letters has a string of five consecutive stakes triumphs and has beaten the 5-2 Nodouble in the Metropolitan Handicap and the Woodward Stakes.

All Is Not Well Under the Dome

HOUSTON (UPI) — The $31 million Astrodome, billed as "the 8th wonder of the world," is rusting away at the seams, according to Harris County engineer Dick Doss.

He said that permanent damage will result if certain joints are not cleaned and painted soon. "In December, 1965, we were advised by the stadium architects after a thorough inspection that should the dome structure not be painted within five years, damage could result which would require expensive repair and replacement," Doss said.

NEW YORK — Jackie Robinson, Hall of Fame star of the old Brooklyn Dodgers, put a big blast on the revered Casey Stengel Friday, saying baseball had produced a lot of better managers. 5TH ANNUAL LONG BEACH MEET 'Theonetics' Don't Exaggerate "Predictions made in 1965, when we first met, were too conservative and need to be updated," says Edward B. Lindaman, Apollo project executive and prominent United Presbyterian layman. "Five Years in a Planetary World" is the theme to be considered by Southland ministers and lay leaders at the fifth annual Theonetics Symposium Friday and Saturday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 at Edgewater Inn Marina Hotel.

Planning," and "Technological and Social Imbalance." Briefings by key spokesmen in the scientific and religious fields will provide explorations into various areas of life and their relationships to Christianity, followed by discussion periods ("theoprobings"). "Master theologian" will be President Arnold B. Come of San Francisco Theological Seminary. Other participants will be Dr. Kraft A. Ehrlicke, chief scientific advisor, advanced programs, Space Division, North American Rockwell Corp., who began his career in Germany on the V-2 system; and Arvo W. Schuen, general manager of Biosciences Planning, Inc.

Pentecostal State Group Convenes Here

The 35th annual convention of California Evangelistic Assn., an organization of 52 West Coast Pentecostal churches, will open Monday for four days in Colonial Tabernacle, 1800 Anaheim St., with approximately 600 laymen and pastors expected.

The organization, headquartered in Long Beach since its inception, will hear a keynote address Monday by Rev. Dr. H. H. Harns of Faith Tabernacle, Los Angeles, brother of the group's founder, the late Rev. O. C. Harns.

Host pastor, Rev. O. W. Taylor, explains that the organization is "quite similar in most respects to the Assemblies of God," and places undiminished emphasis on glossolalia, or "speaking in tongues," as the gift of the Holy Spirit.

Mrs. O. C. Harns of Long Beach, wife of the founder, will officiate at vesper hours. Also scheduled are ministers' seminars, a youth rally, an ordination rite, and guest missionaries.

'AS CONFIDENT AS EVER OF CHRIST'S PROMISE'

Told He Has Few Months to Live, Minister Faces Future Serenely

By BUD WORSHAM

Death is a common subject for preachers — they face the issue almost every day in visiting the sick or comforting the bereaved.

Christianity is a religion of hope, and that hope is based on immortality, or life after death. Thus, much of the preaching is devoted to the subject of death.

But for one Long Beach minister, it is more than a subject that is confined to the sick and the pulpit.

Richard N. (Dick) Lane, minister of the Uptown Church of Christ, 3707 Atlantic Ave., is living each day with a "death sentence" hanging over his head. Three months or less to live. He has melanoma cancer of the liver.

How has it affected this 51-year-old minister, his family and his church?

MR. LANE preachers of the Churches of Christ do not use the title "reverend" remains happy, optimistic and convinced that whatever happens in the next three months — or however much time is left — will be for the best.

"I don't want to die, of course, but I'm not fearful or upset by the medical fact that my life may end in a few months," says Mr. Lane.

His complete faith in Christ gives him the assurance that whether he lives or dies, it is God's will — and the sting of death has been removed by the promise of eternal life for the faithful Christian.

"I've been preaching it for 21 years," says Mr. Lane. "I'm a matter-of-factly, and now that it's my life that is in the balance, I'm as confident as ever of Christ's promise. It's a beautiful experience."

What about the family at the Lane home at 3716 Linden Ave.? — wife Midge, son Rick, 17, and daughter Karen, 15.

"They have taken it (the six-months-to-live report) in a wonderful manner," says Mr. Lane. "I told them I didn't want them to be morbid or do anything differently for me, and they have been just great."

"I told my wife, 'God has granted me nine years of life that at one time I didn't think I'd get.' I'm thankful for those 'extra' years." He was referring to an operation in which his right eye was removed because of cancer and it was uncertain for some weeks whether the disease would spread and prove fatal.

SON RICK is attending Columbia Christian College in Portland and plans to follow his dad as a minister of the gospel.

How has his church taken the news of Mr. Lane's terminal cancer?

"I can't begin to say how grateful I've been for their (Uptown members) concern and manifestations of love," he said proudly. "The elders have been so gracious in the matter, insisting that I take off whatever time I need. However, I am the happiest when I am busy, so I plan to keep as busy as possible. My load has been made lighter by John Hollingsworth, who has consented to assist in the preaching and teaching."

Mr. Lane, a native of Waterloo, Iowa, has been overwhelmed by the reaction of Christians everywhere who have heard of his condition. Churches have held special prayer sessions in his behalf, and the correspondence has touched him deeply.

"THIS is real Christian love," he says of the many expressions of concern. "People who don't even know me have taken the time to pray for my health and offer whatever help they can."

Recently, Mr. Lane

wrote in his church bulletin: "Since the announcement of my illness, I have heard of a few who have said, 'Brother Lane has given up on hope of recovery. This is wrong, he shouldn't do this.'"

"I appreciate beyond words the nationwide interest and prayers... but be assured, I have not 'given up.'"

"Had Jesus given up when he prayed in Gethsemane, 'Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine, be done.' No! It was simply the conflict between the physical man, who wanted to stay, and the spiritual who was fully ready to accept the Lord's will."

"NO ONE knows better than I do that I shall never come near the perfection of the Savior. But, is it wrong to try to follow the example he set, of his great faith in the Father? Is it wrong to try to manifest his resignation to God's will? I believe that this is what any true Christian will do."

"I am reminded of the mountain climber, who when he was ready to reach for the last pinnacle of a lofty mountain he and his friends were climbing, found himself in a state of indecision as to what he wanted to do."

"Certainly he wanted to win the victory of mounting the highest pinnacle of this great mountain. Yet, as he looked back to see his friends, with whom he had climbed so many mountains, still some distance below, he felt a great desire to wait for them so they could achieve this great victory together."

"Midge and I (Rick and Karen, too) have climbed many spiritual mountains together. Many of you have climbed with us as we have, with God's help, scaled some of the giants."

"SO IT is without shame that I say, 'I would like to wait until we can all win the victory of reaching the highest pinnacle together. However, I'm ready to mount the pinnacle of heaven whenever God is ready for me to do so."

"Is it wrong to say, 'God, I would like to climb with those I love a little longer, but I am ready to accept victory whenever YOU wish?'"

Before becoming minister at Uptown Church of Christ three years ago, Mr. Lane served the church at Redding, Stockton, Yakima, Phoenix, Spokane, Downey and Indio.

MET OPERA STAR J. HINES IN CHURCH CONCERT HERE

JEROME HINES Will Sing at Church

Jerome Hines, star of the Metropolitan Opera, will present a sacred concert Sunday, 6:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Lakewood, 5336 Arbor Road, Long Beach.

The world-famed basso has long been interested in Christian evangelistic work, and several of his recordings are religious in nature.

While a freshman at UCLA, Hines made his professional debut with the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Company in "I.M.S. Pinafore." He was then engaged by the San Francisco Opera, making his bow as Mone-trone in "Rigoletto."

By the time he graduated in 1943, the 6 foot 5 inch singer had already appeared as soloist at the Hollywood Bowl, where he was winner of the Young Artists' Competition, and as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic under John Barbirolli.

In 1946, he won the Metropolitan Opera $1,000 Caruso Award, was engaged by the company and made his debut that season in "Boris Godounov." He has since appeared at the Met and around the world in more than 30 leading basso roles.

Lutherans Turn Down Manifesto

The executive council of the 3.3 million-member Lutheran Church in America has termed the "political philosophy" of the Black Manifesto "unacceptable."

Meeting for the first time since James Forman posted copies of his Black Manifesto on the doors of the LCA headquarters in New York last May, the 33-member group which acts for North America's largest Lutheran body between biennial conventions, voted:

1. The political philosophy expressed in the Black Manifesto is unacceptable. One cannot separate the fundamental philosophy of the organization from its program.

2. LCA funds ought not be given to the Black Economic Development Conference — or any other organization — whose goals, purposes or tactics are incompatible with the Poverty and Race Relations social statements of the Lutheran Church in America.

VATICAN CITY — Shortly before 9 each morning, the two Swiss Guards at the St. Anne's Gate to the Vatican start saluting like mad. The bishops are coming: The bishops are coming: Some, like Canadian Bishop Alexander Carter, get up and shave in hotel rooms a stone's throw from St. Peter's Square, breakfast while reading the newspapers downstairs, then leisurely walk to work.

Others, like John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit, awake in secluded villas on the city's outskirts and are chauffeured to the Vatican.

With a flurry of crimson and scarlet robes, the 146 delegates to the Roman Catholic Church's synod of bishops sweep past the Swiss Guards and into the meeting room. It is called the Hall of Broken Heads because it used to be a storeroom for old statues.

The cardinals, bishops and heads of religious orders sit down in high-backed leather chairs and adjust headphones for simultaneous translation. Speeches may be given in Latin, Spanish, French, German, Italian or English. But texts must be submitted in Latin.

The presiding, prelate calls the session to order, reads the announcements for the day and summons the first speaker. If a speaker exceeds the 10-minute limit, the president rings a bell to stop him. Sometimes it takes two rings.

Promptly at 11, the synod breaks for coffee at a bar set up near the hall. When Pope Paul is present, as he usually is, he mingles with the bishops and joins in their chats.

The coffee break talk may be light or it may revolve around some impressive or controversial speech. Members of the synod say the mood has grown much friendlier since the first working day on Oct. 13. The coffee breaks may be one reason.

The synod adjourns about noon. The bishops hurry to their limousines or head for a plate of spaghetti and a glass of wine at a nearby trattoria. Some pause for a beer at one of the outdoor cafes lining the Via Della Conciliazione, leading out of St. Peter's Square. Journalists sometimes join them and tape their impressions of the day's debate.

Afternoons are usually spent, studying the texts of speeches given in the morning. The bishops look for nuances that may signal a shift in a colleague's thinking.

Invitations to dinners and cocktail parties are in. It's not unusual to hear a personable cardinal or an Eastern-Rite patriarch cut off a conversation at a reception with "Excuse me, but I've got to run to another event."

FROM THE PULPIT

Time changes this Saturday night! God's Word never changes. Those who think that the church should change are right in cases where the church never did conform to the pattern of the New Testament. Baptismal regeneration, infant baptism, masses, confession to men, papal authority, formally and like doctrines and practices need to be changed. They have always been wrong. And the fact that these changes are being discussed has led the uninformed to think that the church has become unimportant and no longer relates to our lives.

God's Word and the church of the New Testament relate to men of all ages, and especially to our age, with apostasy, modernism, ecumenism, and atheism on every hand, the ONLY steady influence is the knowledge of God and His Word. The unchanging Word of God is the foundation of life and anchor for the soul.

MARIACHIS AND ALL FROM E.L.A.

Ole! Fiesta Coming to St. Luke's

Old St. Luke's Episcopal Church at Seventh and Atlantic will be jumping Sunday evening, Nov. 2, with a Mexican Fiesta put on in collaboration with women of the East Los Angeles parish.

It's a repeat of the very popular event at another Long Beach church a year ago, with all proceeds going to the East Los Angeles guests for work in their community.

Following Holy Eucharist at 5 p.m., a mariachi band will lead everyone into the parish hall for a Mexican-type dinner, after which there will be entertainment featuring music and dancing from the culture of Mexico by the visitors. Banners, flowers, colorful costumes and pinatas for the children will add to the festive occasion.

Tickets at $2 per adult, $1 for children under 12, may be obtained through the church office, or from

Mrs. Darrell Neighbors at GE 8-9583. If last year's smash success is any indication, it's one of the liveliest — and most meaningful — shows in town, with a "G" rating for the entire family.

Don't Let Problem Blackmail You

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

Are you blackmailed by your problems?

All of us have difficulties, of one kind or another, but the worst thing is to be blackmailed by them.

Do you worry more about having a problem than you do about the problem itself? Are you so concerned about the potential of your problem that you convince yourself there is no way out, no possible, solution, nothing but a terrible situation? Often we get so wrought up about the possibilities of a problem that pretty soon there actually is no easy solution. The whole picture becomes clouded.

Instead of saying, "I have a problem," we begin thinking, "My whole life is a problem."

I sat next to a man on a plane recently and we got talking. At first he seemed very jovial and then, as we talked, I realized he was pretty unhappy. I asked him what was troubling him and he told me, "I'm afraid my family is getting ready to leave me. My wife and I don't seem to be able to sit down together and talk things out anymore and my children seem to ignore me."

"SEEM TO," were the words he used over and over again. And those two words are a clear example of what I mean by being blackmailed by a problem. As we talked on, I discovered this man was away from home a lot. When he returned he was tired and content to just relax and be by himself. Certainly a problem was brewing, and a pretty serious one. But it was nothing he couldn't handle.

The real trouble, however, wasn't the problem. It was the fact that he'd become so upset by the whole thing that he'd given up. He was waiting for his family to walk out on him, when actually that wasn't what they wanted to do at all.

We talked for a while and finally he began to understand that what "seemed to" be wrong could be easily set right with a little bit of effort and thoughtfulness on his part. He was being blackmailed by his suspicions. And instead of acting, he was just waiting for something to happen.

Don't be afraid to recognize your problems. And don't be afraid to be honest with yourself. If you are honest with yourself, if you look a problem square in the eye and see it for exactly what it is, you can solve it.

Today, one of the most popular pastimes of our era is solving puzzles. Crossword puzzles, jigsaw puzzles, parlor games and board games are all based on some puzzle idea. People buy them and sit for hours solving them as a hobby. They do it for fun. And most of them are absolute perfectionists about it. But they won't take time to solve the puzzles they create in their own lives.

There is one particular puzzle you may have seen. It's a drawing of a box with some dots in it, and the idea is to connect all the dots by using only four lines. You can work and work on that puzzle, but the only way to solve it is to draw the lines so they connect outside the box. It's so simple once you realize the principle behind it. But if you keep trying to solve it inside the box, you'll never be able to master that particular puzzle.

THAT PUZZLE represents the way a lot of people think. They get caught up inside the box of their own lives. You've got to approach any problem objectively. Stand back and see it for exactly what it is. From a little distance, you can see it a lot more clearly. Try and get a different perspective, a fresh point of view. Step outside the box your problem has created within you and come at it from a different direction.

All of a sudden, just like the puzzle, you'll see how to handle your problem. And just like the four lines that connect all the dots, you'll discover the course of action that's just right in order to set your life straight.

Don't let a problem, any problem, blackmail you. Get to work on the solution before it gets out of hand. You've got what it takes to handle any problem.

LECTURER

James E. Pike, Christian Science lecturer, will speak at 11 a.m. today in Third Church of Christ, Scientist, 3000 Third St. A Bronze Star Award veteran of World War II, he served as administrative assistant to the president of Wabash College in Indiana.

Appreciation Service for Rev. Morrison

An "Appreciation Service" will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. for Rev. Leon R. Morrison, pastor of First Providence Baptist Church, 801 E. Hill St. Rev. and Mrs. Morrison have been active in behalf of the community since he accepted the call to the church three years ago.

Among those present to honor the pastor will be Dr. Frank M. Kepner of First Baptist Church, Dr. J. David Burcham of Covenant Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Jesse L. Boyd of Grant Chapel AME Church. Dr. Boyd, vice president of the area Council of Churches, will make the major address.

tion that's just right in order to set your life straight.

Don't let a problem, any problem, blackmail you. Get to work on the solution before it gets out of hand. You've got what it takes to handle any problem.

Outvoting Madalyn; New Look at Transcendence

By LES RODNEY

Remember the request for letters of appreciation for the Bible readings and prayers by the astronauts, to counter Mrs. Madalyn Murray O'Hare's letter of protest? Mrs. O'Hare had 20,000 letters. At latest report, more than 2.5 million letters have been received in Houston approving the astronauts' expressions of faith.

WOULD YOU believe plans completed for a $300,000 home for elderly Christians — in Haifa, Israel? Groundbreaking is set soon by the Norwegian Mission to Israel, on land made available by the Lutheran World Federation, which administers former German property in the Middle East.

ALL RIGHT then, would you believe a call for more church attention to transcendence, the mysterious heart of faith, towering beyond the practical and the known — by John C. Bennett, liberal president of Union Theological Seminary?

Writing in the magazine Christianity and Crisis, Dr. Bennett speaks about the often "missing dimension" in modern church life — "transcendence — awareness of a source of judgment upon history, a meaning for human life that is not fully encompassed by politics and economics." He also has a sympathetic word for those who recall "the priestly and pastoral roles of the church that seem to be neglected today. They miss the church's mediation of divine grace to help them to live with guilt and loneliness and death."

Dr. Bennett is not pleading for an end to social involvement by the churches, he makes perfectly clear, concluding:

"This is not to criticize those who — appalled by the racism, poverty and militarism of our society and by the failure of so many churches even to recognize these as problems — go all out in their assault upon these evils. It is rather a plea to churches and theologians to support these efforts while insisting at the same time that God who lays this radical imperative upon men also transcends the causes that claim them. He seeks to heal and fulfill men as human beings in the midst of these struggles and also to prepare them for what comes next."

ANOTHER MOST interesting bit of shaking up of today's church, somewhat along the same lines, was heard at the recent conference on "The Future of Organized Religion" held in Minneapolis.

Speaking of the resurgence of interest in things beyond the known and the cut and dried, Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, program director of the National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago, and professor of the sociology of education, University of Illinois, said:

"The Pentecostal hysteria, rock mass, folk music, guitars, to say nothing of astrology, divination, and oriental mysticism are all a judgment on the Western churches for their failure to respond to man's yearning for the sacred and the ecstatic. The churches once again did not have the courage to believe in themselves or the best of their own traditions. They thought that there was no room for the mystical in an age of science or for the sacred in an age of reason. Now, when the mystical and the sacred reappear again, and with a vengeance, the churches are caught off guard. They had always argued that not by cold reason alone does man live, and now find themselves surprised to learn that they were right."

NORTH LONG Beach Brethren Church's Dr. and Mrs. George O. Peek leave Nov. 3 on a month-long South and Central American mission tour, in which Dr. Peek has speaking engagements and conferences. Stops include Brethren mission churches in Mexico City, Buenos Aires, Cordoba, Belem and Puerto Rico; Wycliffe Translators in Bogota, Lima and ancient Inca cities of Peru, Baptist Bible Fellowship in Santiago and International Child Evangelism Fellowship in Sao Paulo.

Dr. Peek, who has presided over the growth of the church at 61st and Orange into one of the Southland's most dynamic, with a strong youth section, will undoubtedly have some things of interest to report about the Protestant boom down yonder, when he returns.

EPISCOPALIAN controversy over the General Convention decision at Notre Dame to give $200,000 for black economic development will be aired Sunday, 7:30 p.m. at St. Margaret's Church in South Gate. Was it "reparation" money or not? Both sides of the question will be heard.

MRS. CORETTA KING, widow of the slain Baptist minister and civil rights leader Martin Luther King, interviewed by CBS's Mike Wallace on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Mahatma Gandhi, said that after Christ, the Indian apostle of non-violent resistance of evil was the most significant influence upon her husband.

In touching recollection, she spoke of their Sunday mornings together, saying: "One of the most meaningful moments was the Sunday morning meditation. On that day, we always managed to have breakfast together when he was in town. I would

Honor Fred Jordan

Over 600 persons are expected at the Biltmore Bowl in Los Angeles Sunday to honor Rev. Fred Jordan, who has telecast Church in the Home for 18 years. The tribute may be viewed at 11 a.m., the usual time for the popular program.

always insist that he come to breakfast, even though he would be preparing a sermon, for it would create the feeling of oneness. He would pray for the world, and primarily the children in it, to have an awareness of life and of those less fortunate. Then, my husband and I would go to church and worship. It was this way of life that helped to sustain us."

INSTITUTE ON THE DISPOSSESSED

The fourth annual Long Beach Interreligious Institute, with the theme "Religious Responses to the Cry of the Dispossessed," will convene Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in California State College at Long Beach.

Keynote speaker Dr. J. Archie Hargraves of the Chicago Theological Seminary will speak at 3, followed by discussion of his speech. At 7 p.m., after dinner, the Institute will break into six sections, discussing that many specific problems, and then will reconvene to hear recommendations.

clarkavenews

There is something about people who care for people. That's what a Church is supposed to be... and do. But if one thinks of a church as a building or institution, this concept of caring is lost.

A church is people. And when a Church is doing what a Church is supposed to do, its people are involved in caring for people. For people matter.

You matter. From your viewpoint, no one matters more than you and your family. Well, that's the way we look at it too. So the total ministry and program of our Church is planned in that direction... a Church of People Caring for People.

You are invited to be a part of this fellowship... and share with hundreds the exciting way of Christ-centered living in this exciting age.

Dr. Ponder W. Gilliland will speak in all services Sunday... 9:45 and 11:00 a.m.; 7:00 p.m.

Stands on Critical Response to TV

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Roy Huggins, writing in the September-October edition of "Action," publication of the Directors Guild of America, asks and answers some questions about "What's Wrong With the Television Series?"

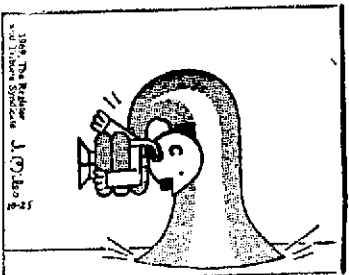

Huggins, who is responsible for such series as "Maverick," "77 Sunset Strip," "The Fugitive," "Run for Your Life" and other shows, says he agrees with this quotation from Sir Robert Fraser:

"Every person of common sense knows that people of superior mental constitutions are bound to find much of television intellectually beneath them. If such innately fortunate people cannot realize this gently and with good manners, if in their hearts they despise popular pleasure and interest, then, of course, they will be angrily dissatisfied with television. But it is not really television with which they are dissatisfied. It is with people."

I'm not so sure it's as simple as that. If you go that route, you uncritically accept what television has to offer. The TV factories are full of people who love that viewpoint.

Computer to Bag Drug Smugglers

SAN YSIDRO — The United States is computerizing the Mexican border in a new experiment at catching smugglers and crooks.

The system, undergoing tests Friday, will allow border inspectors to keep tabs electronically on 50,000 "hot" license plate numbers.

Until now, the inspectors have been trying to keep track of the 50 to 200 "hot-test" license numbers on cards or in their heads.

"I thought of the possibility of using a computer when I heard of the impossible job given these men," said California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke as he looked over the system.

VERNON HANN, regional U.S. Customs director, said it works this way: An electronic "hot-sheet" containing tips from informants and enforcement agencies will be fed into the computer. As a car or truck approaches, an inspector types its license plate number into an electronic tele-printer hooked up with a California Department of Motor Vehicles computer in Sacramento.

Information about any vehicle which has been used by a smuggler or known criminal is back within 10 seconds.

REINECKE said the system is unique and, if successful, will be used elsewhere along the 2,500-mile international border.

It is unrelated to the intensified inspections under way since Sept. 21 in the U.S. crackdown on narcotics smuggling, and Reinecke said it won't speed up the checks which still are being criticized by travelers and Mexican merchants.

The U.S. Customs people have worked on the new device for eight months, Hann disclosed.

"This is a step in the right direction," he said.

"AND, IF YOU'RE TOO LAZY TO PUT UP YOUR HAIR BEFORE GROCERY SHOPPING... OUR CURLER WIG!"

Hughes Asks OK on Air West Deal

WASHINGTON — Hughes Tool Co. asked the Civil Aeronautics Board Friday for permission to consummate its acquisition of Air West through Hughes Air Corp., a new company being incorporated in Delaware.

The airline then would be operated as a separate corporation rather than as a division of the tool company, the application said.

Hughes Tool will own 78 per cent of the air corporation and Howard B. Hughes, sole stockholder of the tool company, will own the remaining shares of Hughes Air.

HUGHES TOOL said the relationship would be the same as that in which it formerly controlled Trans World Airlines and Northeast Airlines, and similar to arrangements between General Tire Co., RKO-General and Frontier Airlines, between Ling-Temco-Vought and Braniff Airways, and between Trans-America Corp. and Trans International Airlines.

The document said Hughes Air would receive $16 million in assets in excess of liabilities. The CAB has approved, subject to conditions, a Nov. 18, 1968, contract for the sale of Air West to Hughes Tool.

Open Army File Asked by ACLU

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Northern California chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union has joined the battle for public access to Army records concerning forced repatriation of one million anti-Communist Russians at the end of World War II. Julius Epstein, a researcher at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University, originally made the request to open up the papers.

Prominent Trio Face Duck Quiz

SACRAMENTO — A former Fish and Game Commission member and a University of California regent are among three prominent men cited this month by federal officers for investigation of shooting too many ducks.

Federal officers said Friday that citations had been issued to Dante J. Nomellini of Stockton, former Fish and Game Commission member; Edwin W. Pauley, Los Angeles oil man and a UC regent; and Baron Hilton, son of hotel-man Conrad Hilton. Jack Downs, chief enforcement agent of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Sacramento, and Assistant U.S. Attorney James J. Simonelli confirmed that the citations were issued but declined to comment further. No case has been filed in federal court, they said.

The citations accused the trio of going over the duck limit on Oct. 1, the opening day of the season, while hunting at an exclusive duck club in the Stockton-Ship Channel.

Tape Player Taken

James Bott of Madera told Long Beach police Friday that while his car was parked near Gate One of the Naval Base, burglars forced open a side window and made off with a tape player and tapes valued at $202.

Chinatown Firms Resist Wage, Hour Pressures

SAN FRANCISCO — Chinatown's Six Companies, responding Friday to criticism of low wages and long hours in Chinatown garment factories, said workers "rice bowls will be empty" if the shops are eliminated.

The San Francisco Human Rights Commission reported that the average annual wage is $2,000 for women who work six days a week at piece rates.

Dr. Dennis Wong, president of the group, said the workers "have their freedom to walk in and out in order to take care of their household during their 10 to 12 hour day."

He said the organization,

'He Didn't Sound Like the Zodiac'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A survivor of an attack by the "Zodiac" killer said Friday the murderer had such an unusually calm voice "it never entered my mind that he would try to kill us."

The voice, said Bryan Hartnell, a pre-law student who spent half-an-hour talking with "Zodiac" before being critically stabbed, did not seem to be that of the troubled man who called a television talk show Wednesday to talk to attorney Melvin Belli.

Hartnell listened to tapes of the program Wednesday and again Friday. He said he could not be sure whether the voices were the same or not.

At the first session, he said, it was extremely difficult to concentrate on tone and voice structure because of the presence of television news cameramen in the room.

But he said it seemed the voice which told Belli "I've got to kill," was younger and more excited than Zodiac.

HARTNELL and Cecilia Ann Shepard, 22, encountered the man believed to be Zodiac last Sept. 27 while picnicking on a lonely beach near Lake Berryessa in Napa County 60 miles northeast of San Francisco.

The attacker, standing 40 feet away behind a tree, donned a black hood and then ordered the couple, at gunpoint, to give him money. He directed Miss Shepard to tie up Hartnell with clothesline he provided and then he tied up the girl.

"He said nothing to make me frightened," Hartnell said. "It never entered my mind that he would try to kill us."

He said the man told him he had killed a man in a recent escape from a Montana prison and needed money to help him get to Mexico.

Hartnell, a Seventh Day Adventist, said he only had 75 cents but repeatedly offered, "I would like to give you help. Take my phone number. You are welcome to come and visit me."

THEN, when the couple was hog-tied and lying on their stomachs, the man pulled a knife and without a word stabbed Miss Shepard 20 times and Hartnell a dozen times. The only sounds were groans and the girl's cries of "stop, stop."

After the attacker's departure, the couple extricated themselves and obtained help.

The dates of three previous "Zodiac" slayings were later found written on their car, and "Zodiac" took credit for the attack in a series of notes to police and newspapers.

Miss Shepard died two days later, but Hartnell recovered and is back at Pacific Union College in Napa.

Since then, four other murders have been attributed to Zodiac and police in five counties are watching school buses because of his threat to kill school children "as they come off the bus."

Police considered thousands of suggestions from the public including the observation Friday of an astrologer, Alex Hoyer, who saw an astrological pattern to the timing of the crimes. However, Hoyer would not project a date when Zodiac might strike again.

HOW TO SAVE $500 NET ON A BRAND NEW AUTOMOBILE WITHOUT HAVING TO DEPEND ON OUTBARGAINING THE SELLER
 Realizing that a promise of such a saving without good reason is pretty sure to be a hoax, we want you to know how we arrived at the $500 figure and that it applies only to a brand new 1969 American Motors car purchased from Holiday Rambler.
 1st 1970 automobiles are markedly higher priced than '69s.
 2nd A costly smog device (required only in California) is attached to every 1970 model.
 3rd By delivering a factory set number of new cars before Sept. 20th we qualified for the highest volume factory bonus on each 1969 model new car delivered after that date.
 4th Prices on all brand new models leftover at new model introduction time (Sept. 25th) whether in a dealer's inventory or at the factory warehouse were reduced by 5% to all dealers. We are selling these cars for less because they cost less.
 They are year long, perfected, last off the production line cars in the newest colors, the most exciting interiors and with the most desirable equipment. We deliberately bought them because we know they will run just as far and as fast as 1970 models and we believe they mark the automobile hi-point of value for the year 1969.
 Thirty of them are on hand, the remainder will arrive soon as we make room for them by selling these one at a time.
 Allowance on your trade, if any, terms of the sale, etc. are still subject to bargaining if you are so inclined.
 We sincerely believe that this offers a bona fide saving without a catch or a come-on. We hope to see you real soon and we promise you will never cause to regret your visit. Bill Bryant, owner Holiday Rambler, authorized American Motors' Warranty Service Center, 1427 Long Beach Blvd. in Long Beach. Telephone 599-1321.
